Berlin Rebuffs U. S. On Rights Of Its Citizens

Nazis Reject Request That All Americans Be Granted Treaty Rights; Hitler Asks Duce To Keep Peace For Year During Chamberlain Conferences.

(By Associated Press)

The German government disclosed today it had rejected a request by the United States for "special rights" regardless of race or creed for American citizens in Germany.

At the same time, Reichsfuehrer Hitler was reported reliably in Rome to have stepped into British Prime Minister Chamberlain's appeasement visit by urging Italian Premier Mussolini to help keep Europe's peace for one year before demanding fulfillment of Italy's "natural aspiration."

Germany's rebuff to the United States was disclosed through DNB, her official news agency, which quoted an exchange of notes between Berlin and Washington as an outgrowth of recent Nazi measures against Jews in Germany.

To an American note of Dec. 14, it said, Germany replied Dec. 30 declaring her willingness to discuss individual cases. DNB said that Washington, which sought assurances that American Jews in Germany would not have their treaty rights abridged by the anti-Semitic measures, had agreed to such consultations.

Premier Sees Pope.

Reports of Hitler's message to Mussolini came from informed German sources as Chamberlain turned from his talks with Il Duce to pay respects to Pope Pius XI and as results of the premiers' conversations were being relayed to the United States and French ambassadors to Rome.

The fuehrer's reported request was interpreted as indicating that he was not yet ready to make payment to Mussolini—his axis partner—for Italian support at Munich, where Germany acquired Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

Informed sources, however, said Hitler probably would support Italy if her claims, principally against French colonial possessions, were not met within a year and then would consider Italy justified in going to any lengths to realize them.

In Spain, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's armies marched steadily closer to the government seaboard, threatening early conquest of all lower Catalonia and intensifying the danger to Barcelona, the government capital.

Capture Tortosa.

The Insurgent command at Lerida said Franco's Moroccan troops had captured Tortosa, 100 miles southwest of Barcelona, strongpoint of the government's defense system along the lower Ebro river.

Private reports from Barcelona said the situation appeared critical and government dispatches acknowledged that after 30 months of civil war "the fatherland is in danger."

Reliable foreign sources in Shanghai said Japan was working out a plan to open the Yangtze river, China's great inland waterway, to restricted foreign shipping. They said foreign vessels probably would be limited to the same number as the few Japanese ships available.

ROME: Britain Tells Italy France To Get Her Solid Support

(By United Press)

ROME—Great Britain has informed Italy that in the event of trouble between Italy and France, Britain would be solidly behind France, an unimpeachable source revealed today.

The long-heralded conference between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Premier Benito Mussolini has proved a failure, it was indicated, and may result in virtual abandonment of Chamberlain's "appeasement" policy and a hardening of the dividing line between the democracies and dictatorships.

In Reply to Chamberlain's warning, an authoritative French source said, Mussolini assured Chamberlain that he does not envisage any hostilities against France.

Mussolini's Mediterranean demands and his refusal to take his troops out of Spain proved the stumbling blocks which prevented the conference from achieving any concrete results.

It was disclosed that the Italians informed the British that Mussolini expects the Spanish war to collapse finally "within a few weeks," after which the Italian forces would be withdrawn.

Mussolini was understood to have told Chamberlain that after liquidation of the Spanish war, the situation would be reviewed again between Britain and Italy.

The impression in sources close to the British legation was that if Mussolini's belief that the Spanish Insurgents will be in Barcelona within a few weeks does not materialize, Mussolini will reconsider whether he should not begin to liquidate Italy's participation.

VATICAN CITY: Chamberlain, Pope Confer On Europe's Status

(By International News Service)

VATICAN CITY—His formal conversations with Premier Mussolini concluded, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain conferred for almost an hour today with Pope Pius XI at the Vatican.

Accompanied by his chief aide, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, Chamberlain talked with the pontiff in the latter's private library, exchanging views on Europe's political, economic and social conditions.

The British prime minister wore morning dress for his visit to the Vatican. Authorities there, recognizing the premier had little time at his disposal, modified the usual etiquette, which calls for evening dress as the correct attire for an audience with the Pope.

Earlier, Lord Halifax received United States Ambassador William Phillips and French Ambassador Andre Francois-Ponvet separately at the British embassy. It was presumed he informed them regarding details of the conversations between Chamberlain and Il Duce.

Members of their entourage waited in an anteroom while Chamberlain and Lord Halifax conferred with the Pope. Archbishop William Godfrey, newly named apostolic delegate to England, and Sir Francis D'Arcy Osborne, British minister to the Holy See, acted as interpreters.

Meanwhile, diplomatic circles believed Chamberlain and Mussolini had ended their formal talks in a virtual deadlock over outstanding European issues, but with a clearer understanding of each others points of view.

It was learned, however, that the world armaments race was one of the major topics discussed by the two premiers, and that the United States figured in a general discussion of possible ways to check this competition.

SIGNS 1ST BILL

Bricker OK's $43,000,000 Partial State Appropriation Measure.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—With photographers' bulbs flashing, Gov. John W. Bricker today signed his first bill passed by the legislature. It was the $43,000,000 partial appropriation measure, providing operating funds for state departments and institutions until July 1.

When someone called the governor's attention to the fact that it was Friday, the 13th, he remarked: "I'm not superstitious."

Halts Payment of Municipal Court Funds

JUDGE TAKES STEPS PENDING END OF AUDIT

Journal Entry Reports Ports Has Been Suspended 'Due to Certain Irregularities.'

CLERK RETURNS TO CITY

Suspension for 6-Day Period to Enable Examiner to Complete Check.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today had ordered all disbursements by the municipal court held up until a complete audit in the accounts of Clerk Allen K. Ports, whom he suspended Wednesday could be made.

At the same time the judge filed a journal entry with the court ordering the suspension of Ports, who had returned to the city today, for a period of six days to enable State Examiner Elmer Zook to complete his audit of the division.

Extends Audit.

Zook yesterday had been ordered by superiors in Columbus to extend the audit, which was to have covered a period from Sept. 1, 1937, to Nov. 19, 1938, up to the time of the clerk's suspension, after the alleged discrepancies were reported to have been uncovered.

Ports, who was reported to have gone to Cincinnati yesterday, was back in the city today but could not be reached for a statement.

Judge Kalbfleisch still declined today to deny or confirm the report that financial irregularities in Ports' accounts had been responsible for the suspension order.

Withholds Statement.

"I do not care to make any statement until the audit is completed," he said this morning.

However, the journal filed by the judge read:

"Due to certain irregularities found in the records of the clerk, it is ordered the clerk be suspended from all his duties for a period of six days, to enable a thorough audit to be made.

The entry was signed by Judge Kalbfleisch.

The judge explained that the disbursements by the court included monthly payments to the

There's Minimum Of Bad Luck Today, It's Friday, 13th

Look for a minimum of bad luck today.

Why? Because it's Friday the 13th and everyone is being very careful and very cautious.

The old superstition has had one very beneficial result—there are less auto accidents on a Friday the 13th than on other days. A nationally known insurance company is authority for the statement.

The company said today that its records show that on the last Friday the 13th—in May, 1938—there were fewer auto accidents than on any other day of the entire year. It added that Friday of each week—considered by the superstitious to be the unluckiest day of the seven—has fewer accidents than any of the other six days. Saturdays are the worst of the week, the year round.

Perhaps this will revolutionize the old superstition and in the future Friday the 13th will be forgotten and it will be Saturday the 13th that will make people walk with their fingers crossed.

There might even be a movement to that effect this year—because there are two Friday the 13ths—another in October, but only one Saturday the 13th. That's in May.

RESUME RAZING

Simpson Wreckers Back After Contractor Gets Insurance.

Wreckers resumed work today on the old John Simpson junior high school building after a layoff yesterday while S. H. Tuber, Cleveland, contractor for the razing project, obtained industrial compensation protection for men on the job.

The Mansfield board of education ordered the halt in operations because the absence of industrial protection made it liable for injury to workers on the project.

About one-fourth of the old building had been torn down today. Representatives of Vernon Redding and Associates, architects for the new John Simpson building, said the start of work on the new project might be delayed unless demolishing of the old structure is speeded up. Work is expected to begin within 10 days.

SENATE ERRED, HOPKINS SAYS

Should Have Passed Bill To Outlaw Politics In Relief, He Says.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Harry L. Hopkins, former head of the Works Progress Administration, said today the senate made "a great mistake" last year in rejecting a proposal to outlaw politics in relief.

Hopkins, testifying before the senate commerce committee in defense of his nomination to be secretary of commerce, admitted that some WPA officials and employes in various states had engaged in political activity.

"Personally," he said, "I have no feeling of a sense of guilt. I did the best job I could."

RUPPERT CALLED 'OUT' BY DEATH

Wealthy Owner of Yankees Dies After Game Battle; Leaves Vast Holdings.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Ill for month with a lingering malady, Col. Jacob Ruppert, one of the world's richest men and New York's outstanding sportsman as owner of the Yankee baseball club, died at his Fifth avenue home today at the age of 71, leaving behind a business and baseball empire.

Col. Ruppert's condition became critical Tuesday night when he lapsed into a semi-coma, and his doctor then gave up hope for his recovery, but a rally followed, to last only briefly. He sank again thereafter and died at 10:28 a. m., surrounded by relatives who had been constantly at his bedside since his condition first was pronounced grave.

Last rites of the Catholic church were administered Tuesday evening when the game fight he was making against the inevitable obviously was about to be lost.

With local real estate holdings second only to those of the Astor family, Colonel Ruppert was a millionaire many times over, a brewer of national renown and possessed a priceless library and art collection, but the source of his greatest pleasure was the team that so thoroughly dominates the baseball world—the Yankees.

And it was from the greatest of all the stars who played for him

Blind Class Teachers Agree To Stay On Job Without Pay

Teachers in the WPA school for the blind, ordered closed yesterday for lack of federal funds, had agreed today to work without pay for a time, while efforts are being made to find a new way to finance the project.

An appeal to the city for funds was made yesterday by James Gordon, president of the Mansfield unit of the American Federation of Teachers, and an instructor in WPA business classes at Bowman street school.

Gordon asked for $400 to carry on the one-day a week school for two months. Mayor Claude M. Hunter turned the matter over today to City Solicitor Marion Ward for an opinion on the legality of such an appropriation.

"If it is found that the city may make such an appropriation", he said today, "I will refer the matter to the city finance committee for its recommendation to council. However, the city's general fund this year has been curtailed and I can't see how money for this purpose could be taken from it."

Gordon also said he would ask the Mansfield Community Fund to contribute funds.

Sidney L. Palmer, executive Fund secretary, said today the request had not yet been presented to him, but if it were he would refer it to his board. He added that all Community Fund money is earmarked for the nine participating agencies.

The announcement that the school would close as a WPA project was made yesterday by a district supervisor. The school held on Thursday's was started two years ago, and has provided a social and recreational program for 25 blind persons in the county, besides classes in handwork and Braille.

Experts Declare Roosevelt's Defense Plan Would Give U. S. Supremacy.

ASKS 13,000 PLANES

Program Calls for Giving Army 6,700 Crafts With Navy Receiving 350 More.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Aviation authorities said today that President Roosevelt's request for an emergency national defense appropriation would enable the United States to gain supremacy of the air with nearly 13,000 first line planes within the next two or three years.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a special message to congress yesterday, asked for approximately $552,000,000 of which $210,000,000 would be spent in the fiscal year 1940; the remainder would be in the form of contract authorizations to be paid for at future date. This was in addition to the more than $1,100,000,000 requested in the regular army and navy budgets for fiscal 1940.

6,700 Planes For Army.

The emergency appropriation, of which $300,000,000 would be earmarked for the construction of or letting contracts for army planes, would conceivably enable an increase of 6,700 planes in the army air force alone. The $210,000,000 asked for the naval air would enable construction of an additional 350 planes.

In the regular budget message, provision was made for both the army and navy to continue building as rapidly as possible towards the respective goals of 2,320, established by the Baker board, and a minimum of 3,000, fixed by congress for the navy last year in the naval expansion bill.

5,000 In Two Years.

Under those programs, the number of planes was aimed toward 5,320 within two or three years. The new aerial expansion plan, it was said, would add more than 7,000 planes to that figure, making the total nearly 13,000.

Snow Storm Sweeps City, Spring Ends

A blizzard which threatened to blanket the Mansfield area with the heaviest snow of the winter brought an abrupt end today to the city's week of spring-like weather.

Starting early this morning, more than two inches of snow had fallen by noon, and the forecast predicted more before night. The city's heaviest snow was slightly more than three inches early in December.

The temperature fell to 24 degrees this morning, but there was no immediate threat of a severe cold wave. The weather bureau said snow will continue tonight, while Saturday will be cloudy with snow flurries.

Mansfield streets and highways in all sections of the state were slippery and treacherous as the snow packed under traffic. The state highway department cautioned motorists to drive with extreme care.

City and state highway workers spread cinders on dangerous curves and intersections, and salt was used on city streets to prevent ice from forming.

Snowfall was heaviest in southern Ohio, and a three-inch fall was reported early today at Cincinnati where traffic was snarled by the ice-coated streets.

Temperatures throughout the state ranged from 18 degrees above zero at Canton to 30 at Cincinnati. Cleveland had 28 degrees.

At the same time, dispatches from Columbus quoted the governor as saying that the next operation probably would center on the enforcement division and after it would come re-organization of the tax and civil service commissions.

"We are sincere," Bricker said after he announced the dismissal of the store employes. "We are not going to kick them off and replace them in two or three weeks.

"We are going to weed out the inefficient—that's all there is to it."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

When the play, "Girl Shy," is presented this evening at Westerville by the dramatic students of Otterbein college, a Mansfield girl, Bette Greene, will portray one of the leading roles. Bette is playing the part of "Asma" in this three-act comedy. Bette must sometimes have difficulty in finding time for her studies . . . for besides her dramatic work at the college, she is also active in the Women's Athletic association, Epsilon Kappa Tau (social sorority), and the Y. W. C. A. Lots of luck, Bette, we all wish we could see your performance.

Another Mansfielder must have been undaunted by the ominous thirteenth . . . because today Miss Lily Dickson left her home on Stewart Lane and set out for West Palm Beach, Fla. . . . where she plans to stay during the remainder of the winter months.

RUTH MAFFET afforded members of the E-T club one of the most interesting programs of their club year when they met at the home of Helen Berlo Wednesday evening. . . . Ruth (who teaches at Bushnell school) is that lucky gal who spent all last summer visiting Betty Smith (a former Mansfield school teacher) in Hawaii. Ruth illustrated her talk with motion pictures and souvenirs of the island, as well as with three dances in native costume. . . . There was a gourd dance done with a yellow and green feather gourd . . . a lei dance . . . and a bamboo dance. And she had all kinds of leis—from ones made of red and white peppermint drops wrapped in cellophane to those made of tiny white shells! And if you think all sand is tan in color, just ask Ruth . . . and she'll show you some that's black—right from the beaches of Hawaii.

You no doubt recall that I told you some four weeks ago about Catherine and Paul Endriss' extensive southwestern trip. . . . Well, right about now (while we're having another blast of winter snow) they're basking in the warm sunshine of southern California—that is if the 13th didn't bring on a rainy season out there—and will journey to Houston, Tex., shortly. Mrs. George F. Zinninger, Catherine's mother, is here from Canton to take care of the Endriss youngsters while their parents are on that seven-week western sojourn.

There was quite a hub-bub in city hall Wednesday afternoon when Betty Zediker squired a group of seventh grade Girl Reserves from Hedges Junior high school through the building under the guidance of Miss Mary Deibler. The girls had quite a time gathering up enough courage to slide down the firemen's exit pole . . . but once they got started there was no stopping them . . . and one youngster's record went all the way to six slides! They kept Mayor Hunter busy too. . . . First the girls all had to meet him . . . and then, of course, they all wanted his autograph—25 autographs are quite a few in one day—and don't let anyone try to tell you they aren't!

FROM MY NOTEBOOK: Saw Ruth Root downtown shopping yesterday for the first time in ages. . . . She doesn't venture over from her home in Plymouth very often these days. She looked extremely smart in a fitted beige coat trimmed with brown caracul, brown sport hat with a perky green feather, and other brown accessories. Ruth says she's keeping herself quite busy these days antiquing chairs and knitting sweaters—without benefit of a pattern.

Mrs. Bancroft Talks On Safety Club Before West 5th Mothers

TWO new members, Mrs. Arthur Buzza and Mrs. Floyd Appleman, were welcomed into the West Fifth Street School Mother's club yesterday afternoon when that group met at the school building. Forty members were present for the meeting, and the room prize was awarded to Miss Florence Berry's room for having the largest percentage of mothers in attendance.

Mrs. Albert Bair, vice president of the organization, was in charge of the business session. It was decided, at this time, that the club would pay the yearly Y. M. C. A. dues for the boys of the school. Mrs. Bair also announced that Miss Nona Marie Wilson will hold the next adult education class at the school on Jan. 17.

Speaks On Club.

During the afternoon's program, Mrs. Kathryne Bancroft, a teacher at the school, told the group of the newly organized safety club and its activities. A junior safety council is being developed at the school in order to extend the work of the boys patrol to more pupils. This council was started by Frend Boals under the auspices of the Richland County Automobile club.

A record of all students' accidents will be kept so that the types of injuries and their remedies will be on record.

Glenn Robinson, principal of the school, told the mothers of the new manual arts classes which have been started for the pupils. These classes will be given over to woodworking.

During the musical portion of the program, Jerry Bishop, a pupil at the school, played MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" on the piano. The girls from the conservation-vision class then sang a song and gave a song-dance under the direction of Miss Leona Snyder. The program was concluded with the singing of several songs by a group of the mothers.

Buffet Table.

Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon from a long buffet table which was centered with a bowl of spring flowers and lighted with red tapers. Mrs. Lena Fisher was chairman of the refreshment committee for yesterday's meeting, with Mrs. George Hart and Mrs. D. E. Patterson assisting her. Mrs. H. D. Bishop was in charge of the program, and Miss Snyder was her associate.

The next regular club meeting will be held at the school on Feb. 9. Mrs. R. F. Zaebst will head the refreshment committee at that time, and Mrs. Louis Schrack will be in charge of the program arrangements.

Install Officers Of Pocahontas Lodge Last Night

At the meeting of the Pocahontas lodge which was held in Eagle hall last night, 11 new members were welcomed, and officers of the lodge were installed. Mrs. Clara Cramer is guard, Mrs. Olive Epley is guard of the tepee.

The two scouts are Mrs. Elizabeth Croskey and Mrs. Ida Crookston. Mrs. Thelma Hodgson, Mrs. Ethel Ferrell, Mrs. Clara Weaver, and Mrs. Julia Grandstaff will serve as the four warriors.

Mrs. Grace Norris and Mrs. Mary Hill are the runners, and Mrs. Effie Keltner and Mrs. Mary Fox are the councilors. Mrs. Hazel Stichler will serve as Pocahontas, Mrs. Martha Reichert as Wenonah, Mrs. Mary Baird as Powhatan, and Mrs. Anne Weaver as prophetess.

The delinquent committee includes Mrs. Sadie Well, Mrs. Weaver, and Mrs. Ethel Sams. Condolence and resolution committee members are Mrs. Croskey, Mrs. Alice Jenkins, and Mrs. Nannie Lowman, while Mrs. Hill will serve as reporter.

Loyal Daughters Conduct Session

Nineteen members and one guest, Mrs. Charles Wyss of Crestline, were present for the meeting of the Loyal Daughters class of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church last evening at the home of Mrs. Tunis Dillon, Hammond avenue.

Mrs. Donald Leonard, class president, conducted the business session, after which Mrs. Wyss gave a reading. The group then played several contests, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Byron Crider, Mrs. Stenna Mansfield, and Mrs. Melvina Damlos. Refreshments were served buffet style and a pink and white color scheme was carried out.

The class is planning to have a chicken dinner at the church on Jan. 19 at 6 p. m. The next regular meeting of the group will be held on Feb. 9 at the home of Mrs. Anna Huber, 195 Rowland avenue.

HOSTESS TO GUILD.

The Ladies' Guild of the Mayflower Congregational church met yesterday at the home of Mrs. F. B. Poling, 200 Harker street, with Mrs. Sadie Adams in charge. Mrs. Harry Adams gave the missionary program and along with Miss Grace Finical presented readings. After the serving of refreshments it was announced that the next meeting will be Feb. 9 with Mrs. Ada Lurz, 199 Harker street.

A QUIET ceremony read at 11:30 a. m. yesterday at the First Christian church united in marriage Miss Zola Belle Shaffer and Charles W. Essick. Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor, read the single ring service.

The bride, who was a graduate of the Bellville high school, wore a navy blue crepe gown with a shoulder corsage of orchids. She attended the Mansfield Commercial Institute, and at present is an employe of the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

MEET TUESDAY

County Milk Producers Elect Directors at Dinner Here.

Members of the Richland County Milk Producers' association will elect directors and vote on changing the home office of the Northcentral Ohio Milk Producers from Bucyrus to Mansfield at their annual meeting Tuesday at the First M. E. church, Mansfield.

Dale M. Dohner, Mansfield, manager of the county unit, said the other seven counties which formerly made up the north central Ohio organization, had dissolved their organizations, leaving Richland county as the only one to continue the activities of the association.

The county members will ballot on proposed minor changes in the by-laws of the organization, Dohner said.

C. F. Christian of the Dairyman's Co-operative Sales association, Cleveland, will speak at the afternoon session of the meeting. Dinner will be served at the church at noon.

FRIGID FOODS

FRIGID-FOODS are really fresher than those that you buy in the city markets. Fresh foods shipped into the markets are, as a general rule, picked before they are ripe and are allowed to ripen in transit, which is not the way nature intended it to be. To enjoy real food flavor, the product must be allowed to be sun-ripened naturally in the garden or on the bush, vine or tree, just like we pick them to be packed and frozen—Strictly Fresh, thereby capturing and retaining the original flavor and goodness of the sun-ripened fruits and vegetables.

VEGETABLES: Spinach, String Beans, Early June Peas, Corn, Corn on Cob, Broccoli, Green Baby Lima Beans, Asparagus Tips, Cauliflower, Peas and Carrots.

FRUITS: Montmorency Cherries, Home Grown Strawberries, Red Raspberries, Black Raspberries, Blackberries, Blueberries, Peaches.

FISH: 1 lb. Packages Skinless Haddock, Cod, Sole Fillets, Scallops, Perch, Oysters.

Young ladies who sigh, when they have to help mother around the house, should read Lois Lenski's "Bound Girl of Cobble Hill" and rejoice that this is 1939 and not 1784.

Mindwell Gibbs was only seven when she was bound out to her Uncle Bildad, Landlord Bassett of the Tavern of the Five Pines. However, she could cook and scrub and she soon learned to sew and spin. She had to serve out her time until she was 16 years old. Her life at the Tavern was not exactly happy, as she had to work too hard, and she had no friends of her own age with whom to play. In those days life was real and life was earnest.

In her foreword, the author says, "this story is an attempt to reconstruct village life in northwestern Connecticut—village life as it affected a child." She has succeeded remarkably well, and has also given us illustrations entirely in keeping with the period.

Toy Balloon Test Latest For Those Who Tip Bottles

MINEOLA, N. Y.—(AP)—Surprise tests of breath—made with toy balloons—showed that 58 out of 100 late night and early morning motorists here had been drinking.

None was drunk but 35 had consumed enough alcoholic beverage to be described by officials as a potential menace behind the wheel.

The tests were made by state police co-operating with Nassau county authorities.

All but one—a woman—of 101 motorists agreed to give the police samples of their breath by blowing up a toy balloon.

Using a method perfected by Dr. Rollo N. Harger of the Indiana university medical school, experimenters passed the air in each of the balloons through a solution of potassium permanganate and sulphuric acid. Color changes—from pink to yellow—registered the presence and approximate quantity of alcohol.

MURPHY, LONGLEY ARGUED, YES, BUT NO SPLIT IN SPORTS RIVALRY LIKELY.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor

YEP, Russ Murphy and Red Longley did get into a chewing match before their quints clashed Tuesday evening, but reports that it may cause a break in the rivalry are probably a bit strong. The argument is said to have centered around what players constitute the Mansfield reserve team. But the Ashland Jay Vees gave the junior Tygers a severe trouncing, so perhaps, everything is okey dokey again. At least, there doesn't appear to be any immediate danger of a split in relations . . . . Babe Ruth is not nearly as ill as first reports indicated, New York dispatches say . . . .Golf addicts paid something like $4,000-000 for balls last year. . . . Football prospects at Pittsburgh will be pretty drab for next year if the freshmen quit the school as they have threatened if their tuitions are not paid. Dr. Sutherland loses 10 of his 11 first-string men by graduation. . . . No series of college football games has attracted the number of fans over a period of years as the Ohio State-Michigan contests. During the last 17 years, since Ohio stadium was dedicated, during good years and bad, through boom times and depressions, the Buckeye-Wolverine games have been played before 1,128,710 spectators. This is a yearly average of 66,394 per game.

Weekly to Absorb Armstrong Punches.

HARRY WEEKLY, who fought in Mansfield rings on many occasions, will be one of Henry Armstrong's opponents in the multiple champion's exhibition in Akron Monday, Jan. 23. Prices for the show are $2.20 and $1.10. . . . Russell Fuller, INS scribe, blasted Ohio state athletic officials in a recent article because they turned thumbs down on Charlie Blackwell, colored halfback at Toledo U., who is "destined to be the best football player in the state this fall." Ohio State could have had him but chose to keep hands off because of the color question. Fuller writes, but Doc Spears didn't lose any minutes when he heard the Pomeroy boy was available. "This is just one of many incidents which have discouraged many high school coaches from encouraging their stars to matriculate at Ohio State," said Fuller. . . . Bill Boliantz is doing a right smart job as a guard at Kent State these days. . . .Massillon and Canton McKinley tangle in a basketball game tonight. Sing a song of sixpence
I'll tell you why,
Clair Bee's Blackbirds
Are riding high.

Merely another way of telling you that the Long Island university Blackbirds, so ably coached each year by Clair Bee, former assistant to Coach Russ Murphy at Mansfield high school, are riding high in the collegiate basketball world.

The Birdies flew through their first 10 games without having their wings clipped and appear to be on the way to another great season.

First few opponents were soft touches, we admit, but victories over the touring Southern California club, a team which had beaten Purdue and Temple among others, and over Kentucky, said to have the best ball club in the Southeastern conference, aren't feats to be trampled in the mud.

Average 60 Points a Game.

Against Southern California, the Blackbirds warbled a sweet tune, winning 33 to 18. They blanked the Trojans in one stretch for 11 minutes without a tickle at the mesh.

Against Kentucky, the veteran Long Islanders romped, 52 to 34, taking a 29 to 15 lead at the half-time. The sharpshooting Blackbirds, dead-eyes one and all, hooped 14 two-pointers out of 39 tries from the floor.

Besides the Trojans and the Wildcats from Lexington, Bee's basketeers whaled Newark, Panzer, Princeton seminary, McGill and Montclair Teachers among others, averaging 60 points a game.

Still to be played by the busy Bees are the New York A. C., Toledo, Geneva, New Mexico State, Mexico Y. M. C. A., Scranton, Duquesne, Canisius, St. Francis, St. Bonaventure, Baltimore, John Marshall and La Salle. Most troublesome on this schedule are Toledo and Duquesne, both strong as any club in the country and both enjoying great seasons.

Hillhouse Is Star.

Long Island's team is headed by the veterans Art Hillhouse at center, Captain Irving Torgoff at forward, Danny Paplowitz at guard, John Bromberg at guard and Myron Sewitch at guard.

Hillhouse, captain last year, is six feet five inches tall and weighs 210 pounds. He has scored high in his two previous years on the team. Torgoff, one inch above six feet, is another classy basket maker, as is Paplowitz, one inch under six feet. The latter was all-scholastic in high school.

Bee, now in his eighth year as coach at Long Island, has a remarkable record. His team was undefeated in 1935-36. Before coming to Long Island, Bee was employed at Rider college where his football, baseball and basketball teams were outstanding. Bee is a professor of commerce in the business administration department of the university.

THE Rex Billiards extended their winning streak in the Senior A league over a two-year period to 17 games last night when they edged Miller's Dairys, 29-24, at the Friendly House.

The triumph was the seventh straight of the current season for the cuemen, who hold a two-game lead in the title race.

Although trailing more than half of the game, the Billiards showed their stuff in the third period when they obtained a 24 to 20 lead and protected it in the final quarter.

The Dairys stepped into an 8-6 lead in the first period and sported a 16-14 advantage at the intermission. It was one of the toughest games the Rex team faced this season.

Joe Wentz accounted for 12 points to lead the Billiards' scoring. Heiser tallied 10 for the Dairys.

The Blue Goose Sohioans retained second place by winning over the Raemelton Farm, 30-27, in a spectacular game. The Blue Goose quintet trailed 6-5 at the end of the first period, but knotted the count 12-all at the half. The oilmen went ahead 21-20 in the third period.

Kenny Lockhart was high in the scoring column for the Blue Goose entry with 13 points. Kenny Hardin tallied 14 for the losers.

Augustine's Canfield Oils defeated the Musille Cigars, 30-18, in the other game. The Cigars pressed the Oils for three periods, trailing 16-14 at the half, but were unable to hold the Canfields in the final quarter. Schaffer led the winners with 10 points.

Ashland Star Sets Season Scoring Mark

Richcreek Scores 27 Points in 59-35 Victory.

ASHLAND — Jimmy Richcreek established a new season individual scoring record here last night as he led the undefeated Ashland college quintet to an impressive 59 to 35 victory over Cedarville before a near capacity crowd.

Richcreek, erstwhile Indiana high schol star, rung up the record by dropping in 11 field goals and five free throws for 27 points, a feat not duplicated here since Flip Lersh turned the trick in 1927.

Ashland, which registered its seventh consecutive triumph, jumped into the lead in the opening minutes of the contest and was never headed.

Cedarville spurted near the end of the 20-minute opening half and crawled within three points of the advantage, but failed to have the power to overcome the crack Ashland outfit.

Richcreek, who was undoubtedly the outstanding player on the college planks, drove in continually to slip in easy under-the-basket shots in the opening half. And after the intermission when the invaders set up a defense to stop him on the drives the lad stood in the middle of the court and connected with ease.

Ashland led, 25 to 22, at the half, but after that Cedarville was never in the battle. Near the middle of the last half Ashland built up a commanding 49-to-31 lead, and continued to add to it.

Kavanaugh, towering Cedarville center, paced his club with 11 points.

Yuncker Sports Lead Scoring In B League With 2842 Total

Hang Up Three Victories Over Satterlee Team; Meder, Eberhardt Lead Women's Loop.

THE Yuncker Sports, who have been riding along in the second division all season, banged out a 2842 total to establish the scoring pace in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Scores of 948, 919 and 975 enabled the Sports to take three games from the second place Satterlee Restaurants, but the defeats did not knock them out of their position as the leading Office Cafe club dropped the same number to the Mansfield Printers, who shot a 2756 with Flood, 626, and Jones, 603, leading the way.

The Printers, however, by virtue of their three victories, grabbed a share of second place, one game behind the Office Cafe.

Jim Will paced the Sports with a 625, while Win Pilot contributed a 604.

Led by Adams' 607 and Maier's 609, the Ringside Cafe came through with a 2800 total, but won only one game from the Kochheiser Sports, paced by Selby's 612. The Ringside team shot a 1077 in its first game for its only victory.

The Mansfield Rugs upset 2743 pins to take a pair of wins from the Heilman Grocers, the Burghardt Cafe, led by Anthony's 625, won a pair from the Shelby Cycles and Ohio Public Service added two wins at the expense of the Met's Auto Supplies in the other matches.

Matmen Share Card With Burros Tonight

BUDGE STEPS INTO LEAD IN MATCHES WITH VINES

DETROIT — (INS) — The fiery-thatched Don Budge, former king of the world's amateur tennis, today was another step advanced toward professional supremacy after conquering Ellsworth Vines, California professional great, but was forced to a thrilling 24-game set here last night to do so, 6-3, 0-6, 13-11. It was Budge's fourth victory in their see-saw series to three for Vines.

Mephisto, New Champion, to Give Up Place on Tonight's Card to Dugan.

THERE'S going to be a lot doing over in the Armory out on the Ashland road tonight.

But the Great Mephisto will not be here to help deal out the punishment. No siree, Mephisto is the new world's light heavyweight champion today.

The mysterious one defeated Billy Weidner, defending titlist, in 59 minutes and 40 seconds in a gruelling match in Columbus last night to regain the crown he held several years ago.

Here Next Week.

As he felt he did not care to defend his title without a rest tonight, he asked Promoter Tim Nolan for a postponement, and the Quality club matchmaker agreed on the condition that he comes here next week.

So Mephisto will grapple on the Armory mat next week as champion of the world, and Ernie Dugan, a rough hombre from Boston, will take his place against Whitey Wahlberg of Duluth tonight.

In addition to the Dugan-Wahlberg match, tonight's show will introduce donkey wrestling to Mansfield fans. Prospector Pete, with a long beard, and Lon Chaney will be on the burros.

Something New.

Donkey wrestling is something new for Mansfield fans. Prospector Pete and Lon Chaney, who will be the principals in the tussle, will don gloves for their act. The idea is to try to knock each other off their mounts. Pete, Lon and the donkeys will open the show at 8:30 p. m.

A match between Bob Blake of Columbus and Ray Swartz of Germany will complete the bill.

Farr, Burman Headline Card

NEW YORK—(INS)—Three 10-round heavyweight fights are down for decision at Madison Square Garden tonight, with promoter Mike Jacobs confidently predicting that out of the virtual free-for-all will emerge an eventual challenger for champion Joe Louis.

The main event will bring together Red Burman, protege of Jack Dempsey, and Tommy Farr, the Welsh heavyweight, who has dropped decisions to Joe Louis, Max Baer, Jim Braddock and Lou Nova.

The second ten will find Roscoe Toles, Detroit heavyweight, throwing punches at Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia and the third ten will pit Chuch Crowell of Philadelphia against Buddy Knox of Dayton.

Twin-Valley Leader Seeks 8th Straight

Undefeated Plymouth Quintet Host to New Haven; Madison Plays at Butler In Big Game Tonight.

ONE of the few undefeated high school teams remaining in the state, Plymouth will attempt to make it eight straight tonight when it entertains New Haven.

The Tygers are heavy favorites to take the measure of the New Haven quintet in the headline Twin-Valley league game. Shiloh, also of this county, goes to Greenwich.

The headline tussle on tonight's county league schedule takes Madison to Butler. This game promises to lure one of the largest crowds ever to see a game in Butler.

Madison One Up.

Madison, undefeated league leader, leads the Bulldogs by one game. Butler dropped its first decision in eight games last week when it fell before Ontario, which is host to Lucas tonight in what should be another first-class contest. Bellville goes to Lexington for the other county game.

UNION AT ONTARIO

Union high will play at Ontario tonight in a County league game instead of Lucas, as previously announced. The error was due to a misprint in schedules. Lucas performs at Union Saturday night.

Tonight's N. C. O. conference game takes Galion to Ashland, Bucyrus to Mt. Vernon and Shelby to Marion. Crestline, sporting one of the best records in the vicinity, will be at home against Mt. Gilead.

Mansfield is not scheduled tonight.

Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Clayton Heafner, Greensboro, N. C., and the top money winner of 1938, Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., trailed the leader by a stroke. Horton Smith, Chicago veteran, followed with a 68.

Wooster Bags Another Win

Scots Trim Denison for Third Straight Victory.

The canny Scots o' Wooster are gaining momentum in Ohio conference basketball circles.

They bagged their third consecutive circuit victory in as many starts last night, trouncing Denison university 49 to 40. Mack, tricky Wooster forward, paced his quintet with 12 points. The Scots held the edge at the half, 22 to 21.

Wittenberg, defending conference champion, inaugurated its home season with a victory over Mount Union, 44 to 36. This was the Lutherans' initial win in loop play, Marietta having taken their measure in a previous conference game. Mount compelled Wittenberg to stage a second half rally. The Lutherans led at intermission 22-15.

Capital university's cagers added another conference scalp to their mounting total, defeating Otterbein 46 to 35. The Columbus aggregation held a 24-17 edge at the half. Freeman, Capital's ace guard, was held in check but forwards Weaver and Helmich contributed 15 units apiece.

Marietta conquered Findlay, 45 to 34 in another loop engagement. Ralph Roan led the Marietta attack with 14 points, while his teammate, Bob Fisher, piled up an even dozen. At the half the score was knotted at 21 points.

Marshall, last season's Buckeye conference leader, initiated its current circuit schedule with a decisive 43 to 28 win over Ohio Wesleyan. Though the Bishops outplayed the Huntington machine during the first half, they fell before a vicious Marshall onslaught in the second frame. Wesleyan was ahead at the half, 19-18. Sophomore Harold McCloud set Marshall's tempo with 18 individual points.

The Musketeers from Xavier university baffled the fast breaking Ohio university Bobcats and took a lively contest by a 41 to 30 count. Frank Baumholtz, high scorer for the Bobcats, succeeded in penetrating Xavier's defense for 13 markers, thus hiking his season's total to 164 points.

Desales college of Toledo turned in its sixth consecutive triumph, humbling Lawrence Tech of Detroit 50 to 35. Wilmington chalked up its seventh win in 10 battles by turning back Bluffton 48 to 30. Ohio College of Chiropody of Cleveland fell before Niagara university at Rochester, N. Y., 43 to 38.

'PEACE PLAN'

Chinese Buddhists Believe Killing Of Animals Caused War.

PEIPING—(AP)—Believing that continued butchering of animals for food has brought on the present war between Japan and China, a group of local Chinese Buddhists has launched a campaign to induce people to refrain from every kind of killing.

Their campaign proposes simply that people kill nothing, not even an insect. Membership in the drive is free, no fees are required, and no meetings held.

If no more life is taken, state the campaign posters, the war will soon end and Buddha will again smile upon humanity.

MART STAGES COMEBACK IN SECOND HOUR

Initial Losses Halved or Cancelled After Running Into Light Selling.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Light selling reappeared in the stock market today, but initial losses running to a point or more were halved or cancelled in many cases near the second hour.

Under water the greater part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, American Smelting, Philip Morris, N. Y. Central and Pullman.

Among market handicaps cited in brokerage quarters were: The battle over relief spending in congress, moderately recessionary business trends and fears the Chamberlain "appeasement" program in Europe might run into stormy weather

Bonds and commodities were irregularly lower. Foreign securities markets pointed downward.

Traders found little comfort in the survey of Dun & Bradstreet disclosing retail spending this week flattened out appreciably. Spring-like weather was blamed for the listlessness displayed by shoppers.

Retail volume for the country, as a whole, was estimated at 3 to 5 per cent under the corresponding period a year ago. Wholesale distribution made a somewhat better showing, the review added.

From other sources came forecasts sales of General merchandise, farm equipment and semi-luxury goods in agricultural areas probably would continue to dip below the 1938 figure until the middle of the year.

HALTS PAYMENT OF COURT FUNDS

political sub-divisions in the distribution of fines, costs and forfeitures, collected by the court.

Also included is the distribution of trusteeship checks which represent the collection of overdue accounts by the court from debtors who have grouped their bills and make payments direct to the court.

However, a distribution was made to the creditors early in December and another distribution would not ordinarily be made for another two or three months.

Fines, costs, and forfeitures, collected by the court are paid monthly to the treasurers of the state, county and city, representing their share from the court cases handled during the month.

Meanwhile, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said that he had been ordered by Kalbfleisch to hold up Ports' pay check for his salary for the first half of January, which is due tomorrow.

Ports, the son of former Mayor Earl Ports and father of four children, was appointed by Judge Kalbfleisch three years ago to the $2,100 clerkship after he had lost the election as city auditor to Kelley on a recount.

MEDICAL MAN HERO AGAIN IN DOUGLAS NOVEL

'Disputed Passage,' New Work of Author of 'Green Light,' 'Magnificent Obsession.'

Lloyd C. Douglas, the Indiana novelist who has the profitable faculty of writing books that appeal both to readers and motion picture audiences, has given his many followers a new volume, "Disputed Passage."

The author of "Magnificent Obsession" and "Green Light" turns again to medical school for his locale and has a medical student for his hero. The title comes from a few lines of Walt Whitman's poetry—"Have you not learned great lessons from those who braced themselves against you and disputed the passage with you?"

John Wesley Beaven from his first day in medical school was the object of the strong personal antagonism of his superior, Dr. Milton Forrester. All during his training Jack had to endure this dislike and from his own "disputed passage" learned lessons of patience and fortitude, of devotion to his profession, of humility and magnaminity.

The new Douglas novel has been received at the Public library and will go into circulation Monday. Another fiction book of interest is "In Hazard," by Richard Hughes. The author tells how, in 1924, the Archimedas, a modern cargo steamer, was caught in a terrific hurricane in the Caribbean sea. The book is being compared to Conrad's "Typhoon" and Masefield's "Victorious Troy."

"The Valiant Woman," by Shelia Kaye-Smith, departs from the manner of her other novels to picture the tapestried life of a Sussex village during a period of crisis.

Other New Fiction.

"Code of the Woosters," by Wodehouse; "Case of the Shoplifter's Shoes," by Gardner; "Hand on Her Shoulder," by Widdemer; "Singing Guns," Brand; "Murder Will Speak," Connington, and "Remember the End," by Turnbull are also on the list of new fiction for the week at the library.

James A. Farley, one of the greatest political publicists of all time, tells the inside story of his political career in "Behind the Ballots," which has just been published. This is a frank record of the business of politics, explaining the organization methods of the Democrats in New York state, as well as his part in distributing party patronage.

"Behind the Label," by Margaret Dana, tells the consumer to buy clothing intelligently—what the buyer is getting when the sales person calls it by a fancy name, why fabrics behave as they do, what qualities can be tested before purchase and many other interesting phases of merchandise.

"Rediscovery of Man," by Dr. Henry C. Link, explains how men and women can develop their full powers and mold their personalities.

An addition to the John Baxter Memorial collection this week is "The Ramparts We Watch," by George Fielding Eliot. He gives a clear presentation of facts, the answer to the question "how safe is America?"

Other non-fiction this week includes: "March of Philosophy," by Alpern; "In the Steps of Moses the Law-Giver," Golding; "Anthology of Classic Christian Literature, by Williams; "Seeds of Destruction," Blair; "Our Ships; An Analysis of the U. S. Merchant Marine," by editors of Fortune; "Clipper Ships," La Grange; "Plastics in the School and Home Workshop," Lockrey; "Elements of Interior Decoration," Whiton; "Guide to American Antique Furniture," Van Lennep; "Paderewski Memoirs," Paderewski and Lawton; "More Fun for the Family," Meyer; "History of An Autumn," Morley, and "Public Plunder," Loth.

WILLIAM SNYDER balances 96 teacups on his head and carries them up and down stairs without a crash.

His daily job in a Lincoln, Ill., china factory is to move thousands of fragile cups, saucers and plates. Doing this on trays made stair climbing awkward, so he experimented with head carrying—like the natives do in Borneo.

Snyder won't talk about his first attempts but is proud that no one has heard a crash out of him since he got the hang of stacking eight dozen teacups on a plank and balancing the plank on his head.

Success brought its reward. Inasmuch as one cannot afford to cough or have the jitters with eight dozen teacups on the head, Snyder made a little side money indorsing a nationally advertised cigarette.

SET LOAD LIMIT

Commissioners Act to Protect Roads During Winter.

County commissioners today placed a 4½-ton load limit on trucks and wagons with hard rubber or steel tires on county roads as a protective measure for roads during freezing weather.

Trucks with pneumatic tires may travel county routes with a load up to six tons, including the vehicle, commissioners said.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword was instructed to post notices of the limit along county highways, and Sheriff E. P. Long was authorized to arrest all violators.

DRAFT TIP TO ROBBERY

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—An ill wind blew no good through Mrs. A. C. Crawford's home as it caused her to investigate the source of a draft, which she discovered came from a bedroom window left open by an escaping thief. He had stolen the purses of Mrs. Crawford's three women guests.

GOLDEN EAGLE IN PERIL

FARGO, N. D.—(U.P.)—One of North Dakota's most magnificent birds, the golden eagle, is likely to disappear from the state if thoughtless hunters continue to kill it, according to O. A. Stevens, botanist at the North Dakota Agricultural college. "The eagle still is a nesting bird in the badlands," he said, "but with continued persecution it will cease to be such."

CHAPTER 46

A thoughtful man can face danger.

He can, and frequently does, defy death itself and think little of it. He can face death threatening himself, and he can even face it threatening members of his family, and rationalize it as something inevitable and not necessarily terrifying.

But no man, especially no thoughtful and honest man, can ever anticipate the shattering damage to his soul that comes when a woman he loves refuses his offer of marriage. Something in this is utterly devastating. It is worse than death's sorrow because nothing—not even Time—at the moment holds any promise of surcease. Man's emotions can sink no lower than to hear a beloved sweetheart say "No."

Sara Sue Davis did not love T. J. Sanders, and had the extremely difficult task of telling him so.

His proposal had been vaguely expected "sometime" in the future, for she was astute enough to know that he was sincerely attracted to her. And just as vaguely had she planned to do something about it before he actually came to the point, as she had adroitly sidetracked Worthington Gurley and made him infinitely happy. But she had simply procrastinated in trying to be rid of T. J.

"and so, T. J., don't you see it now?" She was speaking ever so gently. "It is sweet of you to want me; I shall never forget the honor you have paid me. I think you are fine, really fine. You are still young, and you will go far in business, and somewhere else—with some girl whom you may not even know yet—you will find a happiness greater than you could find with me, and—"

"Never!" he avowed.

—"oh, but you will! I know it. You have just enjoyed friendship with me, and somehow imagine you love me, at the moment. T. J. I almost wish that I loved you back! But—we cannot control those things. Can we? Can we, T. J.? They're done for us, not by us. I do not love you that way. I respect you. I hope to keep your friendship always. But T. J.—"

* * *

She paused to look into his eyes, shaking her head slowly, with tragic finality. The young sporting goods salesman, who liked to imagine that he was a stern man, had to swallow hard to avoid an emotional breakdown.

He had been holding one of her hands, and he slowly released it now. He looked away from her, a picture of abject misery. His shoulders sagged, and he seemed tired, infinitely sad. Finally he spoke, almost in a whisper.

"There's someone else. Isn't there, Sara Sue?"

She nodded. Tears had begemmed her own eyes now.

"It's all right . . . all right," he declared, bravely. "Luck to . . . you both."

Without another word he arose and left her alone. He went onto the dance floor looking hastily here and there.

"Seen Bob Towne?" he asked people.

Everybody had, but not in the last few minutes. He might be there or there, or over there. He goes everywhere, you know. He was teasing three freshman girls a minute ago. He was doing the Owl Hop. He was talking to Peaches Pomeroy. He was bedeviling one of the Mexican boys. He was talking to the orchestra leader. He was dancing with Frances Bowen. He was dancing with Marcia Gurley. He was—

But T. J. couldn't see him at the moment. He moved on and on, looking.

* * *

When T. J. left her, Sara Sue had welcomed the chance for a few minutes alone. She even went back behind some of the decorations, near an open dark window, where she could regain her composure before going back to the dance. She was crying softly, but she did not cry long. She wanted to think for a bit, calmly. She could still hear the dance music and the gaiety in the big ballroom, but it did not disturb her, and she was glad of the chance to rest briefly alone.

"I hope I didn't hurt him," she mused. "I never thought he'd ask me tonight. I wish—I wish I could talk to Thornton."

She smiled wanly at her own thoughts then. Strange, indeed, that she should have so romantic a proposal from one man she didn't want, and have none at all from the one she did want. She, Sara Sue Davis, who was supposed to be very attractive and who, people said, could have any man on the Rice campus. She had heard the talk about herself, inevitably. It had been flattering talk. Now, though, the situation became one of sardonic laughter: Fate again was playing tricks. Her chin trembled at the poignancy of it, and Sara Sue had to cry again.

It helps a great deal to cry. "Don't cry, little girl, don't cry," is age old and foolish advice. Let the little girl cry, be she eight or 80, for no other release is quite so comforting for a woman.

* * *

In five minutes Sara Sue felt better. Not that the deep pain in her heart was gone—no! Her love for Thornton Holgate was etched there forever, she knew. And would have to stay buried there in secrecy, always. But she could be superficially at ease now. She sought a light, and with lipstick and rouge and powder erased the outward evidence of stress. She took a deep breath or two at the window, and regained her traditional poise. She felt now that she could go calmly on through the remainder of the dance, then do whatever private "thinking" she felt inclined to when she was at home in there, too!

"Sara Sue!" It was T. J. back again. "Here she is, Bob. Come in—in here where it's private."

He was leading Bob Towne, who was frankly curious. The intently serious expression on Sanders' face had told him this was no part of the evening's general gaiety and fun.

"What's it all about?" Bob was repeating.

"Listen and I'll tell you," T. J. began then. "I wanted you and Sara Sue both to hear. First, Bob, I want to congratulate you. You win, my friend."

He stuck out a hand which Bob automatically shook, but— "Win what?"

"Win Sara Sue. I—I—well, the truth is, Towne, I'm licked. It's no secret that we've both been courting her. I did everything I could, and I—well, we understand each other thoroughly now. I know where I get off. And I want both of you to know that there's no hard feelings. I wanted to tell you both. You have a swell girl. Congratulations again."

Bob and Sara Sue were too startled to speak, so T. J. went on.

"And another thing, Towne—I had planned to do this in student assembly next week. My boss said it was the proper place. Of course, we'll do it officially there, too, but this is more important now. I can announce now that you have been awarded the Columbian Sporting Goods prize. It won't be the thousand dollars we announced at first, but I imagine it'll be enough for a short honeymoon, anyway. Matter of fact—" T. J. forced a friendly grin at them—"it will be more. The Columbian officials agreed a month ago to raise it to fifteen hundred, if our sales passed a certain quota in the southwest this fall. The sales went higher. They figure your endorsement of our line is worth more than the thousand. So you get five hundred bucks extra. I hope you buy Sara Sue something extra-special with it. Well, good luck."

With just that abruptness he turned and went away.

* * *

Bob and Sara Sue hadn't had a chance to interrupt him, to thank him, to say anything at all. Astonishment controlled them until he was out of sight and out of hearing.

"Well, I'll be dog-goned da——" Bob almost swore, in his recovering. Suddenly the realization of it all swept over him. His face brightened. He turned to Sara Sue—"Did you hear him? Did you?"

Sara Sue swallowed.

"Fifteen hundred, Sara Sue! And—say, you turned him down? He proposed, and you turned him down? Say—oh, gee! Honey, it's wonderful—ee-YOW!"

Probably Bob Towne will holler loudly, or yodel or give a rebel yell if and when Saint Peter beckons him to tenter the Golden Gates. No other way can such an ebullient young man express elation.

He grabbed her by both arms and began dancing a jig with her, trying to kiss her at the same time.

"Stop it, Bob!" she demanded. "Stop it, I tell you, and listen to me!"

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

PLEAS REJECTED

Toledo Convictions in Fraud Case Upheld by Court.

TOLEDO—(AP)—The sixth district court of appeals has affirmed the conviction of five officials of the Toledo Guaranty corporation on charges of fraud and issuing fraudulent checks.

The officials who were convicted by a jury May 10, 1938, are William R. Parmele, president; William O. Reid and John L. Rossel, vice president; Edward Schwab, treasurer, and George Brennan, salesman.

They are at liberty under bond from heavy fines and sentences and are expected to appeal to the Ohio supreme court.

Judges Arthur H. Overmyer, Harry W. Lloyd and Irving Carpenter concurred in the view that the record of the trial did not disclose any error of such a prejudicial character as to prevent a fair and impartial trial.

SHERIFF, AIDS CHALK UP 20,000 MILES IN TRIPS TO INSTITUTIONS

Sheriff E. P. Long and his deputies traveled 19,208 miles last year in taking 104 Richland county residents to state and federal penal institutions and hospital, figures compiled at the sheriff's office showed today.

In addition, the sheriff and his deputies marked up several thousand more miles in going to all parts of the state and into four other states to return prisoners to Mansfield to face trial.

Added to that were hundreds of short trips within the county to investigate accidents and criminal cases. There was no record kept of the mileage traveled in the county.

Forty-six persons adjudged insane in probate court were taken to the Toledo state hospital by Sheriff Long who traveled 9,660 miles in making the trips.

He took 26 prisoners to the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, traveling 3,900 miles, and 26 to the Columbus workhouse for approximately the same mileage. Three were taken to the Toledo workhouse, and one to the Marysville reformatory for women.

One patient was removed to the state hospital at Gallipolis and another to the Veterans' hospital at Marion, Ind.

Outside Ohio, trips were made to Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. With the exception of the trip to Wisconsin by the sheriff, all the mileage was covered in automobiles. The Wisconsin trip was by train.

Delights In Eating Foods She Didn't Dare Touch Before

Mansfield lady relishes every bite but never suffers from gas, sour stomach, acid risings, now. Tells how Vendol brought big change.

MRS. ELLA MESSIMER

Many of the best friends of Vendol, who praise it the loudest, are those men and women who hadn't enjoyed their meals for years because of the distress and suffering that always followed. Such was the case of Mrs. Ella Messimer of 24 Prescott St., Mansfield, who gave her experience to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store. She says:

"For a long time I had suffered every day from constipation, which made me miserable and brought on indigestion and other troubles. I became nervous, tired, and wornout, and seemed to suffer almost daily with dizzy spells and spots before my eyes. Often, too, I'd be driven almost frantic. There were a great many foods that I didn't dare touch at all, but even the plainest meal often distressed me greatly. The food seemed to lay like a lump of lead in my stomach, souring and distressing me with indigestion, nausea, gas, acid risings, cramps, shortness of breath, and heart fluttering.

"I can tell you it's a real pleasure for me to be able to report to you how wonderfully Vendol has helped me in just the short time I've been taking it.

"As a matter of fact, the first few doses got my bowels moving better than they had in long years, and this relief from constipation brought relief from all my other troubles. Now, my nerves are quiet so that I get restful sleep, my strength and energy are up amazingly, and the dizziness and spots before the eyes never seem to annoy me. Best of all, though, I can eat like a hungry school child without suffering in the slightest afterwards. Now there are no foods that I can't seem to eat and enjoy, and I delight in making a point of eating the foods that I didn't dare touch formerly.

"I want to advise everyone suffering like I did, to start taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets without delay, and I'm sure they will enjoy the same relief that I got."

Vendol is sold and highly recommended by leading druggists everywhere, and you can always get it at the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and 4th Sts., where the Vendol Man is on hand to explain all about it. Come see him today if possible.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1939.

More confidence will be felt in government when the political job seeks the man.

Friday, the 13th—in case you're looking for an explanation of any hard luck you've had today.

If you like statistics: "Forty per cent of American homes have no bathtub," yet "Ninety-five per cent of all bathtubs in the world are in the United States."

What Are National Defense Needs?

ADMISSION of the failure of civilization to find ways in which nations of the world can live in peace is found in the message on national defense which President Roosevelt delivered to Congress yesterday.

What he terms "immediate defense needs of the nation" must be interpreted as meaning that the United States is in imminent danger of attack from some foreign source, for "any thought of taking part in another war on European soil" is earnestly disclaimed.

It is an "appraisal of the world situation" that leads to the conclusion that preparation against threat of attack should be made with "as great speed as possible."

While the President said in his message that "It would be unwise for any of us to yield to any form of hysteria," the program he presents for strengthening sea coast defenses, navy bases, army, navy and air forces, has the sound of a warning to prepare for war rather than of belief that continuance of peace is probable.

Except for a few extreme pacifists, there is quite general agreement that provisions for national defense is an important part of the responsibility of federal government. Yet there is also a quite prevalent idea that the United States is not justified in spending hundreds of millions—possibly billions—of dollars in building up a military establishment in competition with some other nations that have been indulging in a wild orgy of militaristic demonstration.

President Roosevelt and members of the Congress are probably better informed as to the real danger of foreign aggression in the near future than the people of the United States as a whole. If there is no such danger it seems foolish to indulge in immediate tremendous expenditures for war material that would soon be obsolete.

Use of intelligent statesmanship in the preservation of peace is more to be desired at this time than vociferations of saber-rattling politicians.

Student Interest In Newspapers.

THE idea of a scholastic newspaper institute, such as is being held in Mansfield today, is a good one.

The John Simpson Times, under sponsorship of which the institute is being held, has made a consistently good showing in competition with other school papers.

Many boys and girls of junior and senior high school age evidence interest in some branch of newspaper work. Some of these will later find places in the newspaper field while the majority will probably turn to other lines of endeavor.

In either case the attention they are now paying to newspaper production methods will be helpful. Too many newspaper readers are inclined to take their daily paper for granted, without having any idea of the time, effort and cost involved in gathering the material, putting it into type, making up the pages and finally, printing and distributing the finished product each afternoon.

There is at least an occasional person who wonders why newspapers are not "better"—if they understood all the details of production they would wonder that they are as good as they are.

The Spanish See-Saw.

THE war that is bleeding Spain to death drags on, with victories alternating. Lately Franco's insurgents seemed to be winning, in the greatest thrust they had yet made. They pushed nearer to Barcelona and took much territory and many prisoners, and began boasting that the war was almost over.

But last week the government forces struck again hard and successfully in southwestern Spain, taking considerable territory and many prisoners. That success, together with an apparent increase of foreign sympathy, gives the hard-pressed and ill-fed republican troops new hope.

It seems clear that without Fascist and Nazi intervention the war would have ended long ago, with a great saving of life and resources.

Find Use for Christmas Cards.

THE common practice of destroying Christmas cards almost immediately after they have been looked over is being discouraged in a number of cities.

It seems to have been suddenly realized that the attractive pictures on many Christmas cards can be used to advantage in other ways—by children, convalescents and even elderly persons with leisure time.

In Mansfield, for instance, such institutions as Friendly House, the county children's home, and possibly several others, might find opportunity to use discarded Christmas cards to advantage.

The idea might at least be considered before another Christmas rolls around.

Life Insurance Sales Rise.

LAST November, total life insurance sold showed an increase over the same month in 1937—the first such increase of the year.

This was probably the result of two things. First, improved business, with increased purchasing power, made it possible for many families to put more money away against the future.

Second, the increase in sales furnishes additional proof of the American people's desire to own more life insurance, and to translate this desire into action when economic conditions permit. And that is a tribute to the thrift, wisdom and foresight of the public.

A 95-year-old man out West has gained prominence by contending that he never felt that he could run a hotel, newspaper, railroad or government better than the management.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — There is no escaping the cathedral note that attended the swearing in of the two recent cabinet appointments by President Roosevelt.

The latest was former Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan, who was named attorney general. Earlier came the appointment and swearing in of Harry Hopkins, former WPA chief as secretary of commerce.

Ordinarily these things are booped along as a matter of course and the oath to support the constitution is read off more or less casually although with due respect for the fact that it is a very serious occasion for those involved.

But in the case of Murphy and Hopkins, there was a special note of gravity, if not religious fervor, that caught the few chosen spectators off guard. Prior to taking the oath Murphy spent upwards of an hour closeted with Roosevelt in the executive's chamber.

* * *

Murphy Solemn.

MURPHY, usually jovial, was as solemn as a Hindu prophet. He had scarcely a smile for even his close friends among the group and was quite obviously impressed by the situation. Then came the swearing in by Associate Justice Reed of the Supreme Court. Murphy had his own Bible for the occasion, one presented him at the age of 15 by his mother when he was graduated from grade school.

"To Dear Frank from mama on the day he graduated, June 26, 1908," was inscribed on the fly leaf.

But that was not all. Once upon a time his mother had marked two preferred verses, Isaiah 11, 4, 5.

"But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth; and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

"And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins."

(Note: the next verse begins: "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb," etc. That was not marked.)

* * *

Wisecrack Breaks Through.

ON THESE two verses Murphy placed his hand as he was sworn in.

There was less of old school religious atmosphere about the swearing in of Hopkins, but he took the occasion with equal seriousness. If ever there was a blase what-the-blazes party, on occasions it has been Hopkins. But not this time. Solemnity enwrapped him. Mrs. Roosevelt made it the occasion for giving him a Bible since he is a close family friend, and upon it he took the oath.

It was not until the spectators were outside that they could shake off the ritualistic atmosphere. But wisecracking Washington took hold again as one remarked: "'In God we trust,' is replacing the brain trust."

Armament Needs Under Dispute

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With congress up to its ears in consideration of the biggest military program in the country's peacetime history, several of Capitol Hill's best authorities on the subject are urging the formation of a joint committee of senators and representatives to determine just what are Uncle Sam's army, naval and aviation needs—and to deal with the whole thing as a single issue.

It isn't a bad idea.

At present there are four congressional committees wrestling with questions relating to our potential fighting strength: Chairman Morris Sheppard's and Andrew J. May's army groups, respectively of the upper and lower legislative chambers; Chairman David I. Walsh's and Carl Vinson's navy aggregations, likewise respectively senatorial and representatorial.

These committees do not co-operate worth a cent. That is to say, perhaps there is a certain community of interests between the two army set-ups on one side, and the two navy crowds on the other side, but there is not a bit of it between the army and the navy men. They are at least mutually indifferent and maybe a trifle jealous of one another.

As for aviation, it is an orphan. True, the army wants plenty of flyers and so does the navy, but there's no thought of coordination between them. Most of the rest of the world's major powers have independent aviation ministries. Our aviation branch is all split up—not only between the army and navy, but the commerce department horns in on it also. The commerce folks' concern, indeed, is with civil rather than military airmanship, but the two are mixed together, just as our war fleet is largely dependent upon an up-to-date merchant marine.

Our National Defense.

Now, naturally our national defense's efficiency depends greatly upon inter-departmental and inter-service union.

It is not altogether a matter of efficiency, either. It likewise is a matter of economy. We are talking today in terms of billions for defensive purposes. It pays us to save here and there, if we can, a few hundreds of millions by planning cohesively.

Incidentally there is considerable congressional opposition to the administration's preparedness scheme. Even pacifistic legislators are favorable to adequately defensive appropriations, but there is a deal of objection to anything like running wild militarily. And that is what the White House is suspected of. It would be to the president's own advantage to start an impartial-sounding legislative investigation to prove his case — as far as possible.

I am convinced that the average American does not deem armament building a nice way of MAKING work. He prefers even boondoggling to any war preparations beyond absolute necessity.

Too Many Departments?

From the standpoint of pure efficiency, a consolidation of departments might be a bright notion.

The United States started off with a war department—including the navy. Well, why not? If we have a war, the navy's a part of it. They were split in two a considerable number of years later. It was a mistake, I think.

The war department was the main thing originally—I mean the army department.

As of to date the navy department tail wags the war department dog—of war.

Overseas fighting is all we have to reckon with—except, possibly, over-air fighting.

While we are reorganizing and thus (supposedly) improving the government, what's the matter with reunionizing army and navy into a national "Defense Department"? And scooping in aviation.

We say we're trying to simplify government.

Timely Editorial

Free Mail That Isn't Free.

When you get an officially stamped piece of mail from your congressman just remember you are helping to pay the charges on it. It isn't as "free" as it seems to be. The same goes for the great mass of mail sent out by government bureaus, most of which few persons ever read. Why is it poured into the mail bags and transported over the country? It is simply a way bureaucracy has of doing things.

The postmaster general reports that his department would have shown a surplus or profit of nearly 4½ million dollars in the last fiscal year had it not been for this free service business, free service to members of congress and the government and also to various other groups. The cost of the total free service was nearly 48¼ million dollars. So the department showed a deficit of nearly 44 millions instead of a small surplus.

Of course the deficit has to be made up. And the money comes from the taxes the people have paid in. It is an old evil but never too late for reform.—Kansas City Star.

Health Advice

Sleep Remains a Great Mystery.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE physiologist, in his study of the functions of the body, likes to analyze. And, in this sense, all of us are born physiologists. We instinctively, when we think about our functions, begin to analyze. What happens to our food? Well, to learn that we have to separate the digestive system from the rest of the body and study it. What happens to the air we breathe? To know that we must take the respiratory system apart and study that. And so on.

When he gets through, the physiologist puts his knowledge of all these systems back together and perhaps thinks he has a man—that he has the secret of life. But he hasn't, any more than that if you were to take four legs and a torso, a tail and a head, and put them together, you would have a dog.

To Entire Body.

There are many functions that belong to the entire body. They are so much a part of all parts of us that we are inclined to forget them. Yet, they are recurrently and insistently present all the time. In the past few months in this column we have been following the physiologist's footsteps and analyzing our different functions; now we will take up some of these functions of the body—as a whole.

One of them is sleep. To what part of you does sleep belong? To the brain? Yes, but not exclusively. In sleep your eyes cease to see—to function. And very much your ears. Your mouth is dry in the morning, so the secretion of the membrane ceases to function also. There is no digestion going on during sleep. The heart and lungs keep up but at a slower pace. The muscles relax. Yes, sleep belongs to the whole body.

Sleep, like many other things in life, is not valued until we lose it. The young don't know how to values leep. Nature confers the largesse of sleep on them with the same overflowing generosity that she confers her other favors on them. In general we tend to need less sleep as age advances. The man of 60 gets a good night's rest on five or six hours, where at 30 he required eight or nine.

Contempt For Sleep.

The testimony of elderly men shows their contempt for sleep. Professor William Lyon Phelps, of Yale, says that only morons do not suffer from insomnia. Professor George Hubert Palmer, of Harvard, said that he had not had a good night's sleep since he was adult. But he learned that if he relaxed he rested during the night, and started the next day as fresh as anybody.

While physiologists do not know exactly what causes sleep, they know that it is an absolutely necessary function of the human body; indeed, of all animals. Death occurs in animals who have been purposefully kept awake—in from 14 to 21 days, even plants show periods of inactivity.

So we are inclined to view with skepticism the reports of insomniacs that "I haven't had a wink of sleep for two months." They do sleep, and they get more sleep than they think.

Worry is the cause of most insomnia—especially worry about going to sleep. If you can rise above that, your insomnia will do you no harm, and is likely to disappear.

"Mommy, Did Dod Det Mad?"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(This story is true. It nearly broke a mother's heart in the telling. But if it opens yours in the reading, some other little Danny may be saved from asking, "Mommy, did Dod det mad?")

* * *

GREAT goings-on Christmas Eve for little Danny! Up and down the hill he raced... baby curls bobbing...baby legs twinkling...little face shining bright as any Christmas berry.

And now he was thrusting his button of a nose into a friendly kitchen . . . sniffing the glorious smells . . . grinning his lost-tooth smile . . . holding up a grimy little paw for the cookie which never failed. And now he was out in the street again, staring blissfully at windows framing a glory of stars.

And now he was peeking behind the bed . . . into the closet. For even if it was hours yet before Santy could come—you never knew!

But even a Christmas Eve must end at last. So, buttoned into his sleeping suit 'til he looked like a baby bear, they carried small Dan to his waiting room and knelt while he said his prayer—

"Now i . . . lamme . . . downta s'eep—
"Prayve, Lord my so—to—keep ("Mom will Santy truly come
("Bwing my ship'n' plane'n' gun?")
"Nifi die afo' I wake,
("Mom, he won't let nuffin' bwake?")
"Prayve, Lord, my — so — to — take—
"Jeesa—sake—men!"

Lower and lower the little head . . . slower and slower the words it said . . . till, redberry cheek on starfish hand, Danny slipped off into Sleepy-land . . . ready to wake in the morning.

* * *

BUT with the morning, Danny was not so ready to wake. Laughing and listening, finger on lip, Mom and Dad had waited for that first joyful shout. Up the street a whistle tootled . . . down the street banged a gun . . . but from Danny's room, only—what?

Between breath and breath, the terror hit—brief as that! One wild pulse, and they were up—swift as that! In one leap they'd made his bed . . . stopped . . . and crouched beside his head—

But Danny slept!

Not lightly now. Not smiling that toothless grin—waiting for Santy to come. Dusky, dreadful—the scarlet of that tossing face! Rigid, ghastly—the quiet of that leg which did not toss! Most frightful of all—that sleep which did not wake!

Perhaps you know—though God grant you don't—the agony of those weeks. Feet slipping ceaselessly along the stair . . . and voices shouting, sobbing on the air . . . until, at last, one day, small Danny woke and wondered—

"Whu's not Santy here?
"'N' why mus' Danny sit
"For always in this chair?
"Is this the reason why
"Us all are sad?
"Was Danny bad?
"DID DOD DET MAD?"

* * *

POOR little lad, lost in the immensity of his first bewilderment . . . trapped in the cruelty of his first pain . . . asking if "DOD DOT MAD?" As thousands and thousands of other blasted babies and heart-broken fathers and mothers have asked for over six thousand years. A shattered skeleton, with a withered bone . . . found near Cairo, dating back to 3700 B. C. A little Danny, staring wistfully from An American home in 1939. The same agony binds them . . . the same wail rises from their young, bewildered hearts—

"DID DOD DET MAD?"

Baby hands banned forever from joyous cookie raids . . . baby feet barred forever from glorious races with the sun . . . for 6000 years they have been man's most tragic monument to man's stupidity and indifference, "Dod did NOT det mad," little babe of Cairo . . . little Danny of today. NO, BUT GOD'S CHILDREN . . . YOUR BIG BROTHERS . . . GREW INDIFFERENT —LEFT YOU TO YOUR FATE!

"INFANTILE PARALYSIS"... "those two words are history's most furious indictments of man's inhumanity to babes!

Millions of little faces fighting desperately for breath in steel tombs . . . peering wistfully from windows . . . "God did NOT get mad," little ones.

We, who said we loved you . . . WE FORGOT!

AND FORGET YOU STILL!

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK — Giving you the run-around: Most of those dime-a-dance palaces advertise themselves as havens of eternal romance—but a dance lasts less than two minutes. . . . Now that a red flag is flying over the lake in Central Park, the streets are filled with hurrying couples carrying ice-skates. . . . That flag means that the lake is frozen.

Carl Van Doren's biography of Benjamin Franklin is good for jaded nerves—lots of solid, honest reading but not very exciting. . . . I sure miss the Roosevelt hotel, now that we have moved into classy new quarters in Rockefeller Center. . . . Over here there aren't any hotel windows to gaze into. . . . Going fishing through the ice next week. It'll be the first time I've wet a hook since Mel Graff and Tracey Howard taught me a few wrinkles at Northville, N. Y., last September. Graff is the comic strip artist and Howard is a real estate operator.

I CERTAINLY am not against skiing as a pastime, but I think the mayor ought to suggest licenses for those who carry skis on the street. One pair is a novelty. Six pairs are interesting to look at. But when hundreds make a dash for the ski-trains at Grand Central, knocking pedestrians' hats off en route, it's—well, it's tough on new hats.

Street salesmen have added earmuffs to their pushcarts, 40 cents a pair. . . . Rudy Vallee ought to complain to Jim Farley; his Xmas cards were delivered three weeks late. . . . On second thought, maybe he shouldn't complain to Jim. . . . A glance at the postmark shows they were mailed three weeks late.

Conde Nast will have a new magazine on the market soon. It's aimed at women who want to know what makes movie stars appealing.

AN AMUSING record of their 18 months in Europe was brought back, in film, by Estelle and LeRoy. One of their most exciting moments was encountering a sand storm in the Sahara while motoring from Alexandria to Cairo. The sand beat with such intensity it cut all the paint from the car.

It will be a sad blow to those who like wild swing (I do not) if Bennie Goodman's band comes apart at the seams. They say several of his major players are leaving him to organize orchestras of their own.

Incidentally, the 15 best-selling songs of the year were "Alexander's Rag Time Band," "A Tisket A-Tasket," "Bei Mir Bist de Schoen," "Heigh-Ho," "I've Got a Pocketful of Dreams," "Love Walked In," "Cathedral in the Pines," (that's one I can't figure), "Music, Maestro Please," "My Reverie," "Rosalie," "Says My Heart," "Thanks for the Memory," "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky," (that's another that defeats me), "Ti-Pi Tin," and "Whistle While You Work." The listing is from Variety.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

It Only Seems So.

It only seems you cannot go
On with your life, now when
This bitter thing has come to you
And you think, "Might have been."

But there are, oh, so many things
Of which life can be made,
Pick up another plan for yours
And do not be afraid.

Almost all lives do not proceed
Upon first dreams, but must
A second or a third one choose,
Some, many plans adjust.

A Farmer's Diary

In a Neighbor's Barn.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAW the lantern light in the square barn window, and knew my neighbor was about his evening chores. I closed the little sliding door behind me, as I entered, for it was cold outside. The lantern hung upon one of several pegs, driven deep into the heavy beam above. A high wind whistled loudly around the corners, and rattled the heavy, galvanized metal roof, but within those walls was peace, warmth and contentment. Long ropes of spider webs hung at the corners where the timbers met, burdened with dust from hay, fodder and ground feed.

My neighbor, half concealed between two cows, stood up in the semi-darkness and gave me a cheery greeting. Then he went back to his milking.

"Do you always work so late?" I asked.

"This is early," he retorted. "The days are so short now that evening and morning nearly come together, and us farmers have to hustle to get anything done by daylight. I 'lowed to brush down them cobwebs in here, today.—I done it three weeks ago, but I see they're back."

I walked about. In one large stall were thirty, thrifty shoats, feeding contentedly. A pile of corn was heaped against the wall. I counted ten yearling calves, in another enclosure. The horses were stabled on the southern side, and seven large draft animals munched their corn, their noses in their feed boxes. The mangers were piled high with bright, odorous, clover hay. From beneath, a steamy vapor rose from their thick straw bed, and the pungent smell of ammonia was apparent.

I stood and sniffed the animal odors, and listened to the contented, munching sounds, the rattle of hay and fodder, the farmer's low-voiced bidding to his cows. At last he came, a burly shadowy figure, with a milk pail in one hand and a lantern in the other—a man with strong hands, and a big kind heart. Together we went out of the barn into the booming storm.

JUNIOR SAFETY COUNCIL TO BE ORGANIZED HERE

Group Will Be Governing Body of Safety Clubs in Ten Elementary Schools.

Plans for the formation of the Mansfield Junior Safety council which will be organized here early next month were announced today by S. H. Glessner, chairman of the safety committee of the Mansfield council of Parent-Teachers' associations.

The organization will be set up as the governing body of the junior safety clubs now functioning in the city's 10 elementary schools under the direction of Frend C. Boals of the Mansfield police department.

Under the plan, officers of each individual unit, which include a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, will be represented in the council.

The representatives will be called together by Boals in the municipal court chamber next month for the purpose of electing officers and drafting a city-wide junior safety program, Glessner said.

Functioning Several Years.

Safety clubs have been functioning at the elementary schools for the past several years and report a membership of approximately 5,000 pupils ranging in age from 6 to 12 years.

The clubs discuss safety problems affecting the children either at school or at home. Reports of all accidents requiring a physician's attention, which keeps the pupil out of school, are kept by the secretary

"The clubs have been organized to create a safety consciousness in the minds of the school children through a program in which the children actively participate," Glessner said.

The present program has proved its worth in cutting the accident toll among children and it is hoped that through the organization of a city-wide council, conducted by the children themselves, further decreases can be effected."

Each safety club is under the sponsorship of a member of the faculty of the school in which it is organized.

The sponsors are G W. Harmony, Bowman school; Miss Mary Wiltrout, Brinkerhoff; Miss Frances Bein, Bushnell; Miss Thelma Ringgenberg, Carpenter; E. W. Kissel, Newman; Miss Catherine Oates, Prospect; Miss Anne Verba, Western avenue, Mrs. Kathryn Bancroft, West Fifth; Miss Edith Stuckey, Woodland, and Miss Vivian Haynes, Country Day.

Slated for Bench?

Mrs. Susan Brandeis Gilbert, New York attorney, has been mentioned for appointment to the federal court of the southern district of New York. Washington reports indicated her father, Associate Justice Louis Brandeis of the U. S. supreme court, in ill health, might retire if his daughter is elevated.

CHECKS FARM ACCOUNTS HERE

O. S. U. Instructor to Conduct School Here Monday.

A summary school for Richland county farmers who kept farm accounts in 1938 will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at the courthouse, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today.

Guy Miller, farm extension specialist from Ohio State university, will be here to examine the farm accounts and to offer suggestions to farmers for records this year.

Miller will conduct another in a series of farm business schools at 8 p. m. Monday at the courthouse.

YIELDS DIAMONDS

MARYSVILLE, Cal.—(U P)—During the past 30 years more than 200 diamonds of various sizes have been found in the sands of the Yuba river east of here. Although at one time extensive efforts to mine diamonds were made, it was never possible to find the source of the stones. They are still picked up occasionally—one diamond amid millions of yards of sand and gravel.

FILES SUIT IN ASHLAND COURT AFTER MISHAP

Insurance Firm Seeks Return of Amount Paid to Client Who Was Damaged.

ASHLAND—An insurance company today filed suit in the Ashland common pleas court here seeking to recover $500 paid to one of its clients, because it contends, it paid a damage bill for which the defendant was liable.

The insurance company, the Automobile Insurance company of Hartford, Conn., filed the suit against Dubois Puterbaugh of Greenville, and contends in its petition that the defendant is liable for the damages to the car owned by Francis E. Myers, II, of Ashland.

Myers' car crashed into a stationary truck owned by the defendant on route 42 Feb. 17, 1938, and the plaintiff charges that the truck was parked on the travelled highway, had no lights or flares exhibited, and that it had no attendant present at the time of the accident.

FILES WILL CONTEST

ASHLAND—A suit in which the plaintiff seeks to have set aside the "paper, writing" purported to be the last will and testament of the late Gailor A. Case has been filed in common pleas court here by Harold P. Welsh, against Paul Herbert Welsh, executor, and others.

5 FLEE PRISON, GUARDS SHOOT 2

Alcatraz Desperadoes Escape From Cells as Thick Fog Covers Movements.

Their condition was reported as serious.

McCain, Young and Martin surrendered after Barker and Stamphill fell.

The five were captured before they had a chance to get off "The Rock"—the federal government's famous penitentiary in San Francisco bay.

Indicating a carefully planned break, the attempt was made in a heavy fog—the thickest fog to blanket the San Francisco area in months.

A gigantic search for the fugitives was organized and under way when Warden Johnston announced the men had been captured.

"They got out of a cell building about 4 a. m.," Warden Johnston said. "A heavy fog enveloped the island.

"The fugitives attempted to get to the water but were defeated in the attempt by guards.

Others Surrender.

"The convicts were so desperate in their efforts to get to the water, however, that two of them, Barker and Stamphill, were shot before they halted.

"The others surrendered."

At Johnston's request coast guard cutters and police boats surrounded the island and circled in the bay until the fugitives were caught.

Johnston said a routine checkup at 4 a. m. led to discovery that the men were missing from their cells.

"I don't know yet how they got out," the warded added. "The guards found them somewhat scattered out and crawling down to the beach over the rocks on the west end of the island.

"The fugitives were crawling and running toward the water. They evidently were planning to swim for it.

"The guards opened fire after first warning the men to stop.

"They didn't stop until Barker and Stamphill were shot.

"Then they surrendered."

Barker, known in the underworld as "Doc" Barker, was a companion in crime of Alvin (Old Creepy) Karpis, kidnaper, bank robber and murderer—at one time America's public enemy No. 1.

He is a member of the notorious Barker family of Oklahoma.

Members of the family included "Ma" Kate Barker, Freddie Barker and Arthur.

"Ma" Barker and Freddie were slain in Oclawa, Fla., after a six-hour gunfight with federal agents.

Arthur was sent to Alcatrez for life for the Bremer abduction.

The first word of the attempted break was a request flashed from the warden's office to police in San Francisco, Oakland and other bay cities to organize a search for fugitives from Alcatraz. That was at 4:14 a. m. PST.

Wilsons One of 3 Family Teams in Waring Show

Mansfielders Have Top Spot In Famed Band's Weekly Broadcast.

Jane and Jack Wilson, brother and sister of Mansfield, are one of three family teams now being featured with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians on their Saturday night broadcasts over the NBC network.

Waring, who with his brother, Tom, started the original Pennsylvanians, has always leaned toward family groups in his singing and playing aggregation. Among the duos who started up the ladder of success with Waring are the Lane sisters, Priscilla and Rosemary, who are now appearing in motion pictures, and Babs and her brother, staff artists at WLW, Cincinnati.

Jane and Jack are the newest of the family groups to be added to the Waring troupe. Jane's soprano voice is heard above the 55-voice glee club in the opening and closing theme. She is also heard in "bit" solo parts and in the girls' singing ensembles. Jack is a member of the All-College Glee club of 20 young men which is heard in "vochestra" numbers combining voices with instruments.

A tenor, he made his debut as a soloist in the glee club's presentation of "My Heart Stood Still." Jane was recently in Mansfield to take part in the Three Muster-Cheers annual Christmas show.

Other family groups with the orchestra are George and Fred Culley of Long Island, N. Y., and Dude and Jack Skiles of Texas. The show is heard each Saturday at 8:30 p. m. over station WTAM, Cleveland.

provisional clerks. The order was effective today.

Frank Poling, manager of the South Park street store, said none of the men were under civil service and that three of them had more than two years' service with the department. Baer had been employed for six months.

Poling said the reduction leaves the South Park street store with three employes and the wholesale branch on North Main street with six.

The governor asserted that the discharges effected a savings of $333,720 a year. Abolition of the following jobs was contained in the wholesale sweep: Chief of permit division, $5,000; two assistants to director, $10,000; publicity director, $4,500; supervisor of insurance $3,600; supervisor of agencies $2,700; and two stenographers, $2,600.

THEATERS

TWENTIETH Century-Fox is purring with satisfaction at the outcome of the first Charlie Chan picture made since the death of Warner Oland. Because putting Sidney Toler in the role that had so long been identified with Oland was something of a gamble. But now that "Charlie Chan in Honolulu" has been released and audience reactions are beginning to be felt, the studio is sighing with relief. Toler, who makes a less austere, less dignified, but more human Charlie Chan, demonstrates in the picture that an American—a Missourian at that—can be just as convincing as an Oriental detective as a Scandinavian. The present prospect is that Charlie may be solving murder for years to come.

* * *

Plenty of Action.

Two stalwart Kansans slug each other, toe to toe and chest to chest in "Stand Up and Fight," which has its Mansfield opening at the Ohio theater tomorrow. Wallace Beery, born in Kansas City, and Robert Taylor, a native of Filley, Kan., are the two hemen who carry on the bitter feud that existed between the stage coach lines and the steam railroads in the 1850's. Florence Rice, who was born in Cleveland, injects an element of romance into a story that is strictly a man's play. A saloon brawl, a jail dynamiting, a covered wagon wreck and a race between a stage coach and a train provide action.

* * *

The Golden Girl.

Frances Farmer, who has been tagged "the Golden Girl" since her sensational success on Broadway in "Golden Boy," came back to Hollywood just long enough to make "Ride a Crooked Mile," with Akim Tamiroff in the character lead, and her husband. Leif Erikson, as the romantic lead. She will appear in a stage play again this winter. Erikson and his wife played together once before in "Come and Get It." Their current film remains at the Madison through tomorrow.

* * *

Starrett Starred.

Charles Starrett, the stalwart film hero, is the center of action "West of Santa Fe," one of the two attractions at the Majestic. In "Live, Love and Learn," Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell and Robert Benchley are seen in a romance which flowers in a garrett but dies from lack of nourishment in a swanky penthouse studio.

A Bit of Drama In Old South

Yes suh, gentlemen, there's real fightin' down in old Maryland when Wallace Beery (left) makes a contact with that handsome chin of Robert Taylor in "Stand Up and Fight." The dramatic story of the feud between the stage coach lines and the steam railroads in Maryland several years before the Civil war, will be the attraction at the Ohio theater for a week starting tomorrow. The disapproving lady in the center is the Ceveland-born Florence Rice, daughter of Columnist Grantland Rice.

Western Thrills.

Bob Steele, as a lazy, good natured cow puncher swings into action when a pretty girl is kidnaped by the Phantom in "Durango Valley Raiders." The girl, played by Louise Stanley, is the daughter of the cowboy's employers, and the Phantom has terrorized the entire valley. The film is offered at the Ritz, along with "The Chaser," an entertaining story of an ambulance-chasing young lawyer.

Battle In the Sky.

A bombing plane and a death ray stage a battle in the skies by way of excitement in "Flight to Fame," the Charles Farrell-Jacqueline Wells picture at the Park. The companion feature, running through Saturday, is "Slander House," with Adrienne Ames and Craig Reynolds, an amusing and entertaining drama of a beauty parlor operator.

PERFECT HANDS

Four At Bridge All Hold 13 Cards In One Suit.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Four perfect bridge hands in a single deal was claimed by Jacob Lechner and his guests.

The deck was shuffled and cut properly. When the cards were dealt each player is claimed to have had a perfect hand—all 13 cards in one suit. Lechner made a grand slam on a bid of seven spades.

Statisticians have figured out that such a deal might occur again in about 300,000 years if the cards were dealt once a minute from now until then.

Brother-In-Law Held In Chicago Physician's Murder

HATE CAUSED HIM TO KILL, COBBLER SAYS

'He Poisoned My Sister,' Says Suspect of Doctor, Figure in Paternity Case.

(By United Press)

WILMETTE, Ill.—John Quinn, 55, sat in a detention room today and told police a story of hate—a hate so bitter it drove him to kill his brother-in-law, Dr. Gordon E. Mordoff, 50, who in 1936 lost a sensational court battle involving paternity of a boy he had believed was his son.

Quinn, a slight gray-haired man is a shoemaker and an ex-convict. He was a brother of Mordoff's wife, Madge, who died Feb. 10, 1936, at the age of 51 shortly before the paternity case came to trial. At the time of her death Quinn accused Mordoff of having poisoned her, although physicians had found she had died from natural causes.

'Hated the Man.'

He repeated his accusation during the paternity trial and again today after he had been seized at his Chicago home.

"I hated the man," he told Police Chief Henry Brautigan. "He poisoned my sister. He neglected her and abused her.

"I've brooded and brooded since her death. I wasn't a drinking man but since she died I've been drinking constantly. It was his frame-up on which I was sent to prison once on a larceny charge.

"I just couldn't stand it any longer. I planned to get him if I had to burn for it."

Mordoff was slain in his office yesterday before two witnesses. Quinn walked deliberately into Mordoff's inner consultation room and fired two shots, both of which went wild. Mordoff fled into the quarters of a dentist, Dr. Floyd L. McGrath, who was treating a patient. Behind him came Quinn, a still-smoking pistol in his hand.

"Don't shoot me," Mordoff pleaded. Quinn fired a third shot. The bullet went through Mordoff's body and grazed McGrath's abdomen. It was spent, however, and did not puncture the skin.

"After that," Quinn said. "I left the office and walked down the corridor. I reloaded the gun and was going back and shoot him again. I thought I hadn't done a good job. But I decided to leave."

He went home and Mordoff died in McGrath's arms.

Committees For City's Birthday Ball Announced

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, city chairman for the president's birthday ball, today announced the appointment of various committees for the annual celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday which will be held at the Mansfield-Leland ballroom Saturday night, Jan. 21.

Mrs. Louise Reese, chairman of the ticket committee, will have as her assistants, Dr. D. D. Deeds, Miss Esther Dunham, Martin Brunner, Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, Miss Mary Jane Bellore, Frederick Fisher, James Jurgens. James Hoffman, Lloyd Brown and Mrs. Joseph Ziegler.

Postmaster Herman Homberger will head the committee in charge of patrons' tickets and Howard Wenning and Clark Brooks comprise the floor committee.

The program committee includes Richard Burnham, chairman; Eugene Earick and Earl Gaar, and the publicity committee, Charles Anglin, chairman; Joseph C. Ziegler and Norman L. Wolfe.

The county set-up, headed by John Correll, has a chairman in each of seven communities: Hoyt Leiter, Lucas; Lee Beveridge, Butler; Barney Kochheiser, Bellville; Frank Griebling, Lexington; Leo McGaw, Shelby; Claude Saurwine, Plymouth; and Gloyd Russell, Shiloh.

Proceeds from the ball will be equally divided between the national foundation for the fight against infantile paralysis and a local group which will be set up permanently to handle the funds and which will use the money for cases of paralysis as the need arises.

OKAYS SHELBY PWA CONTRACTS

State Director Puts Approval On Power Plant Awards.

L. A. Boulay, state PWA director, today announced approval of contracts totaling $55,000 for improvements to the power plant at Shelby.

The contracts approved included $41,985 to the Worthington Pump and Machinery company, Harrison, N. J.; $13,478 to Condenser Service and Engineering corporation, Hoboken, N. J., and $352 to the Ross Heater and Manufacturing company, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Shelby power plant project was a part of the 1938 PWA program in Richland county. The project, approved last year by Shelby voters, was started before the end of the year.

Up and Down THE STREET

Three Mansfield musicians are included in the personnel of Morrey Brennan's orchestra which plays at the Neil House in Columbus and broadcasts three nights a week over station WHKC, Columbus. The Mansfielders are Lewis Finerty, Sidney Applegate and Harold Wise. The orchestra can be heard at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday, 7:30 p. m. Thursday, and 7:45 p. m. Saturday.

* * *

Mansfielders haven't been exactly freezing this winter, but many wouldn't mind being in Sylvester Kleshinski's shoes these days down in the sunny climes of Florida. Kleshinski, who is Jock Collins' assistant at the Westbrook Country club, is in St. Petersburg, where he is working at the swanky Pasadena golf club. In addition to the weather, the golfing's fine, the Mansfielder writes. His boss is Lloyd Gullickson, who is pro at a Cleveland club in the summer months.

* * *

Literally a pain in the neck is one of the items in a collection on display at the Mansfield Public library. It is a "pillow" of carved wood which provides a resting place for the neck but not the head. Its purpose is to hold the head up—by the neck—off the bed so that the coiffure will not be rumpled. The pillow, or neck rest, is one of an interesting collection of primitive objects from Angola, Portuguese West Africa, gathered by Miss Elsie Smith, 4 Blanche street, who spent a year in Angola making a survey of the Presbyterian missions. Another item is a witch doctor's basket which contains such "magical" items as a bird's foot, a lion's claw, a turtle shell and antelope horns.

That display of bright and fancy cards and booklets in The News-Journal window is not a belated display of Christmas cards, but just a very few of the attractive entries that were submitted in the Gift Directory contest. More than 1,000 entries were submitted and many of them were made up into elaborate booklets and Christmas symbols.

In addition to the son, the survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Louis Coover of Shelby; a brother, Walter Fleck of Washington township; a sister, Mrs. Susan Swigart of Mansfield, and five grandchildren. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

CONVICTED IN 'HEAT DEATHS'

Philadelphia Prison Warden Faces Imprisonment on Manslaughter Count.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA—Former Deputy Warden Frank A. Craven, 39, of Philadelphia county prison faced a maximum sentence of 18 months to three years after his conviction on an involuntary manslaughter charge growing out of the "heat deaths" of four prisoners.

Craven was the first of five officers and guards to be tried on second-degree murder and manslaughter charges in connection with the deaths in the radiator-lined "klondike" punishment cellblock at the prison in late August. Five other guards are under indictment on manslaughter charges.

The former official was acquitted of second-degree murder by the jury of five women and seven men.

Notice of an appeal was filed immediately and Craven's bail of $10,000 was continued. Judge Robert E. Lamberton deferred sentence pending the appeal action. Craven also faced a maximum fine of $1,000.

He was convicted specifically in the death of Frank Comodeca, one of the four hunger-striking prisoners "roasted to death" in the superheated cellblock.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cleveland's 1938 fire loss, estimated at $2,078,290, was the highest in seven years, Fire Chief James E. Granger said today.

COUNTY'S RELIEF BILLS DROP TO NEW LOW FOR YEAR IN DECEMBER

The re-registration of relief clients, coupled with an increase in private employment, reduced the number of families on relief in Richland county during December to the lowest mark of 1938 and also trimmed WPA rolls, the monthly report of Relief Director J. Verne Finney revealed today.

Direct relief costs in Mansfield, Shelby and 11 participating townships were $780 lower than in November, due largely to the fuel bills which have been kept at a low figure because of the moderate weather, Finney said.

The amount spent by the county's relief agencies for direct relief was $8,278 or $780 less than the November expenditures. The case load, Finney reported, dropped from 838 in November to 833 in December, despite a number of increases in townships.

While the majority of the townships showed a slight rise in their case-load, the largest was in Madison township where 173 families were provided with food, clothing and shelter at a cost of $1,229 as compared with the 154 families which were cared for at a cost of $1,122 during the previous month.

Finney's report showed that the county now has 1,069 persons employed on WPA, a decrease of 100 persons from the Dec. 1 figure of 1,169.

This reduction was due, county WPA officials said, to an order from state headquarters in Columbus ordering the dismissal of approximately that number of women from county projects who are believed to be eligible for benefits under the aid for dependent children division of the social security program.

Besides direct relief costs, Finney listed administrative expenditures of $1,386 for salaries and supplies.

The report showed non-administrative expenditures of $867 for supplies for a WPA sewing project and for surplus commodities purchased from the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation.

Six of the county's participating townships showed a decrease in relief expenditures for December. They were Mifflin which listed relief costs at $41, Plymouth $112, Sharon $20, Springfield $83, Troy $28, and Worthington $68.

The four showing an increase were Bloomingrove $73, Case $153, Jefferson $56, and Monroe $47.

Shelby spent $666 to provide direct relief for 47 families, an increase of $5 over the $661 spent in November.

During the month more than 39,000 pounds of surplus commodities were distributed to relief clients. These included beans, cabbage, flour, prunes, raisins, peaches, cereal and rice.

WIFE SUPPORTS HUSBAND AFTER BOY'S MURDER

Legal Authorities Predict No Action Will Be Taken in New York Death.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—The mother of a 17-year-old boy slain by his father decided today—after hours of deliberation—that her husband had been right and that she would stand by him.

Their son was a hopeless imbecile, with the mind of a baby of two. They had exhausted every resource of medicine and of hope. For 17 years they had cared for a child which grew physically like any other child, but mentally never left the cradle. Finally, the father, Louis Greenfield, 42, chloroformed him.

'Unquestionably Murder.'

Legal authority expressed the opinion that no action whatever would be taken against Greenfield who freely confessed a crime falling unquestionably within the legal definition of murder.

Mrs. Anne Greenfield was given no share in her husband's decision. He sent her away yesterday morning and when she was sent for her son was dead.

Greenfield was held on a homicide charge. Prosecutor Samuel J. Foley said he would ask for a murder indictment as a matter of duty, but he thought it a "very sad" case.

The son Greenfield killed was Jerome, who was five feet, nine inches tall, weighed 160 pounds, but did not even have sufficient intelligence to reliably control the primary functions of his body. He spoke a baby gibberish understandable only to his parents and was subject to epileptic fits.

DIRECTS EXHIBIT

Mitchell Named Head of State Fair Sheep Section Again.

C. L. Mitchell, Richland county commissioner and a member of the state board of agriculture, will have charge of the sheep exhibit at the state fair in 1939 for the second consecutive year.

Mitchell was one of 11 department heads appointed yesterday by John T. Brown, new department of agriculture director, following the annual re-organization of the state agriculture board at Columbus. Mitchell attended the session.

Appointed to the state board last year by former Gov. Martin L Davey, Mitchell was placed in charge of sheep exhibits at the fair. He has been one of the leading sheep producers in this section for several years.

Other department heads for the 1939 fair include Paul Teagardin, Hayesville, who will have charge of the draft horse division, and Walter J. Buss, of Wooster, head of the poultry department.

THIEVES SHOOT TOWN MARSHAL

Officer Wounded As He Surprises Burglars In Cafe.

HAMILTON — (AP) — William Simpson, 50, veteran marshal of New Miami, an industrial village two miles north, was shot and seriously wounded and another man was believed hurt early today in a gun-battle that occurred when Simpson and a brother officer surprised five burglars at work in a cafe.

Simpson, the father of six children, was shot in the upper left chest, a bullet breaking the cast that had been placed on his left arm as a result of a recent fracture.

Marshal Andrew Cain, reported one of the gang was seen to fall on the snow-swept ground, then stagger to his feet and follow the others in flight.

WHOOPING COUGH TOPS AILMENTS

109 Cases of Communicable Diseases Reported Last Month.

Communicable diseases in Mansfield during December remained on an even keel with those reported for November, the monthly report of Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, showed today. There were 109 cases of the various diseases reported in December, exactly the same number as the month previous.

Heading the list was whooping cough with 44 cases reported to bring the total to 202 for the year; 32 cases of mumps, and 17 of scarlet fever.

There also were three cases of measles, six cases of venereal diseases, four of tuberculosis and one each of tularemia and pneumonia.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Big Business of Press Biggest Assurance That News Is Truthful, Honest

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Among those who insist that the truth is not in American newspapers the first argument is that their dependence on advertising revenues compels them to serve the interests of those who buy the space.

But the very fact that a paper is a big business, with valuable plant and other assets derived from advertising receipts, serves to promote truth and temperance of expression as well. For proof it is necessary only to turn to the rasping little periodicals of limited circulation, which describe themselves as liberal, progressive or radical, and check their material on points of fact. It will then be found that a bold and raucous style of presentation, a fixed policy of snarling at all persons or groups of opposed opinion, particularly at conservatives, often substitutes for honesty and that their lack of attachable assets, beyond a couple of typewriters and a few office chairs and filing cabinets, relieves them of the decent restraints that control their wealthy contemporaries.

* * *

They are judgment-proof, and persons who would be quick to sue a regular daily newspaper for libel by falsehood or malicious ridicule, and reasonably sure to collect substantial damages, simply don't bother to resent dishonest treatment in their columns.

For one reason, the circulation of the unfair remarks has been small, and a suit would serve to spread them further for another, a suit might create publicity for an obscure publication, a hope which causes their editors to court legal reprisals, and, finally, the victim of the wrong usually doesn't want to waste his time for no cash return.

* * *

The moderation which came with assets and responsibility as the daily press of this country developed a partnership with commerce is a public protection against the scurrilous abuse, the class-interpretation amounting to downright news-poisoning and the sullen incitation to disorder which are characteristic of radical publications.

Freedom from responsibility often is interpreted as freedom to libel, and objective reporters as well as commentators who check their material, discarding rumor, sometimes marvel at the effrontery of those who accuse the daily newspapers in publications which are themselves notorious for their disregard of truth, fact and fairness.

* * *

There was the time when certain stalwarts of personal journalism dominated the scene—hilarious rowdies who wrote with little restraint and often less truth—but the very critics who chide the standard press of today for temperate expression would be the first and loudest opponents of any proposal to repeal the libel laws so as to permit these papers similar freedom.

It would be said that they were not interested in truth, but only wanted to be relieved of the penalties for persecuting innocent individuals, particularly radicals of the left or right.

It would be a foul conspiracy by the press and big business to abolish the public's only protection against systematic knifing and hacking of its great liberal leaders. Yet if the daily papers did not have their advertising revenues they would have no financial responsibility and would be as free to distort news and lie about innocent citizens as any Communist publication.

* * *

It need not be argued that of all the libelous irresponsibles the Communist papers are the most brutal, although they are also alert to the cry "red-baiter" whenever a responsible paper, after careful inquiry, put the finger on some politico-labor group as a branch of the Communist organization.

The American daily press occupies a position similar to that of the democracies beset by Communism and Nazi-Fascism. Democracy cannot resort to the weapons of Communism and Nazi-Fascism to defend itself from them, and the newspapers must endure attacks by publications and writers unhampered by the bounds of truth and civility which govern ethical journalism.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

"Charlie Chan In Honolulu." Screen play by Charles Belden. Directed by H. Bruce Humberstone. Cast: Sidney Toler, Phyllis Brooks, Sen Yung, Eddie Collins, John King, Claire Dodd, George Zucco, Richard Lane, Marc Lawrence.

* * *

HOLLYWOOD—Rarely does a "B" (low-budget) picture surpass in interest a film week's more pretentious offerings. This one does—because it introduces a new Chan to the legion of the Chinese detective's admirers.

Sidney Toler, replacing the late Warner Oland, is an unqualified success. His Chan, fortunately, is no imitation of his predecessor's, but an independent characterization adorned by his own subtleties. For his debut he has been provided with a well-integrated, suspenseful mystery aboard a freighter docked at the Hawaiian port.

* * *

Chan, wife and brood are awaiting arrival of the first Chan grandchild when the detective is summoned to clear up the murder. There's $300,000 in cash involved, plus a pretty secretary (Brooks), plus a handsome ship's officer (King), plus an eerie psychiatrist (Zuzzo) and a shady widow (Dodd), Collins, the diminutive rubberface, muggs hilariously as keeper of a wild animal consignment, and Sen Yung (Chan's No. 2 son with sleuthing aspirations) clicks hugely. Mystery and comedy are well balanced, and the film should assure a new long life to the Chan series.

* * *

"Pacific Liner." Screen play by John Twist. Directed by Lew Landers. Cast: Victor McLaglen, Chester Morris, Wendy Barrie, Alan Hale, Barry Fitzgerald, Allan Lane, Paul Guilfoyle.

Played to the throb of a luxury liner's engines, and largely in the somber atmosphere of the fire room, this feature is an interesting, dreary and grim account of a cholera epidemic below decks during a passage from Shanghai to San Francisco.

McLaglen is the burly, blustery chief engineer intent on keeping his record of crossings in scheduled time. Morris is the ship's doctor, gifted in tropic diseases but plagued by wanderlust. Wendy is the nurse, resuming on this voyage a previously interrupted romance with the doctor.

When a stowaway dies of cholera, Morris quarantines the stokers. One by one the plague claims the men, whose fear mounts to panic, to threatened mutiny. McLaglen, scornful, goads his remaining men to the point of exhaustion, finally picks up a shovel himself to keep the fires going even after he, too, has yielded to the disease. Morris and Wendy, through the scourge, are drawn closer.

The players perform splendidly, and the character bits are strikingly presented. But "Pacific Liner" remains drama for those who like their movie meat raw.

* * *

"The Girl Downstairs." Screen play by Harold Goldman, Felix Jackson, Karl Noti. Directed by Norman Taurog. Cast: Franchot Tone, Franciska Gaal, Walter Connolly, Reginald Gardiner, Rita Johnson.

This is the most literal of Cinderella yarns—scullery maid and millionaire finding that true love is all that matters.

The amazing thing is that, thanks to direction and performance, the picture is entertaining, amusing and worth seeing. Miss Gaal (handicapped by a homely coiffure and wardrobe) is charming, and incidentally rather like Mary Pickford in her hoydenish heyday.

Designer Calls Women Sheep-Like

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Perhaps a sense of loyalty to your own sex will make you boil with rage over this report of a conversation with a famous Paris arbiter of fashions. The ungrateful creature is a man who has made millions designing clothes for women. He's my authority for saying:—

"Women are sheep. You can put them into any absurd fashion you create, either for your own amusement, or because you happen to wake up with a grouch the morning you design a walking nightmare." Needless to say, the man was talking to a small group at luncheon, and the sheep comparison was not to be mentioned in connection wtih his name.

Later, looking at some of the full-moon faces smiling complacently under doll hats, I felt obliged to agree. Marjory Hillis, author of those refreshing books, "Live Alone and Like It," and "Orchids on Your Budget," has something to say about the absurdity of this "follow your leader" game so popular among women. The smart girl, says Miss Hillis, will create her own type. She won't copy Garbo, Hepburn, the Duchess of Windsor or any one else. Apparently, few of us are smart.

The average woman knows her good and bad points, better than advising friends, even if they mean well. Because your sister-in-law or your girl friends looks well in one of those sausage-like arrangements of puffs, why imagine it will suit you, who have an entirely different type of face?

You are, of course, all too familiar with the pretty woman who makes a fright of herself with too much makeup. A washcloth and soap would do wonders for her but she can't see it.

Again there are women who prefer to look like freaks, rather than not be noticed at all. They wear veils to the theater and keep them down, even after they remove their hats.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, January 14

Rather treacherous and doubtful conditions prevail on this day, judging by the rather contradictory reign of important planets. In fact, there is a fairly devastating and disintegrating aspect which may cause sudden upheavals, unlooked-for developments and disturbances, with stubborn obstacles arising to thwart cherished plans. It may be necessary to make a complete aboutface. But shun quarrels, rash and impetuous behavior. Calm and discreet action may save the day.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare themselves for a precipitance of the unforeseen and unexpected, causing a disturbance, upheaval, rearrangement or even a complete discarding of cherished plans and objectives. Obstacles and setbacks threaten, but these will not be remedied or routed by strife, reckless or turbulent conduct. Try quiet deliberation, discretion and sound consideration in devastating moments. Change environs cautiously. Be wary with strangers.

A child born on this day may be rash, headstrong, impetuous and quarrelsome, ready to vanquish all factors threatening to oppose or defeat its indomitable urges to do adventurous and unusual things in a big way. Its originality and audacity may seem to justify the drastic opposition to its success and reputation.

The next time you make scalloped potatoes, try using a can of cream of mushroom soup in place of part of the milk. It gives the potatoes a delicious flavor.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Did any man have a more wonderful scout for a wife?" he demanded of the four walls of the hotel room. Then he set me down on my feet again and kissed me, lingeringly, tenderly.

"I must go now, sweet," he said, "and don't worry about anything. I'll attend to all the details about Noel and you and Mary getting away from here. We'll give old Phil Veritzen a run for his white alley."

I laughed tremulously, but I was nearer tears, and Dicky put a comforting hand on my shoulder.

"Buck up, old girl!" he said. "You're the gamest thing going. Don't weaken now. And—I'm very sure you won't have to keep those dates with me."

"If I do," I returned stoutly, "I'll be there before time."

"'At a girl," he commended, and with another kiss, a quick, cheery one this time, he was gone. Waiting only to bolt the door after him, I staggered to my couch and gave myself up to the ravaging tide of emotion I had held in check while Dicky was with me for fear it might unnerve me.

Fear for him, for myself, for Mary and Noel rolled over me like a tidal wave, and when it receded, I was spent, actually weak with exhaustion. Thankfully I remembered that I had told Mary I would give her no drill for several hours to come, and with a little sigh I burrowed deep into my pillows, and, after a time, fell asleep.

The telephone at my elbow wakened me two hours later, and when I took down the receiver, the operator told me that a telegraph messenger was downstairs with a package for me.

"Send him up at once," I directed.

"Wasn't able to get over here before," Dicky wrote, and I knew intuitively that an interview with "Jim" had been the reason for his delay, "so thought a telegraph messenger would be quicker than the postman. Am starting now for Thorp's. Ought to get the dope before five o'clock this afternoon, and will telephone you immediately. So be on the lookout, or rather, the hear-out, for my fascinating Oxford accent."

I put the time table to one side with the drowsy reflection that I did not need to study it for another day or two, and went back to the sleep which I needed so sorely. When I wakened next, Mary was standing over me, looking down at me with anxiety on her face.

"I knocked and knocked and called," she said, "and you never answered, so I barged on in. I'm here to tell you that you scared me out of a year's growth when I got in. You looked as white and exhausted and still as if you were dead."

With the realization that she really was frightened about me, I forced an impish smile to my lips.

"You'll find I'm a lively corpse, Mary, when I give you that half hour I promised. Isn't it nearly time for it?"

"An hour past," she answered. "And who do you think has been reminding me every five minutes that it was time for my drill? None other than little Noel, the one-time obstreperous husband, but now a devoted fan of the future Veritzen star."

She pirouetted with skirts swirling and an impish smile on her face. But I noticed that her voice was subdued to the merest murmur, and that she watched the door cautiously.

I rose from my bed with decision.

"Such devotion shall be rewarded," I said. "I said. "I was going to give you the regular drill, but instead I want to you to dance for Noel."

Schedule Beauty Duties

By MME. QUI VIVE

It's a part of every woman's life business to keep herself in tiptop form, to look after her health and look as good as she possibly can. Some may desire to be pretty, some smart of appearance; we have different ideas, different aims. Every girl to her taste.

Use your head; that's the first rule. If you're a business girl you'll have to do your beauty home work before tearing out after the bacon in the morning and before falling into bed. The best times, anyhow. Nice to dash away in the morning in fine form, pleasant to go to bed feeling beauty righteous.

At night Miss Career has her warm bath. Has to clear away the dusty feeling after a day of activity. Before getting into the tub she removes make-up with a cosmetic oil, lets some remain on while she has her steaming.

She uses plenty of soap, a bath brush and friction. Suds and bristles curry off dead skin scales, make the skin function normally as an eliminating organ. She gives herself a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel, dusts the arm pits with a deordorant, palms a bath tonic into her flesh. Fine!

Into her nighty and robe and settles down for fifteen minutes at her dressing table. First the finger nails. The flesh is soft after the bath, so the orange wood stick is slipped under the nail eaves; with it she lifts the cuticle about the nails, after which a cream is applied.

Off with the bath cap. Hair is combed gently, the wave smoothed, a wave cap put on. The sassy coiffure has a better chance of survival if it is put to bed neatly.

A massage cream is slapped into the complexion. What's left is worked into the hands.

When there's extra time before the bath, the gloves are washed, shoes given a rub up, the messy purse straightened out, stitches taken here and there.

In the morning getting dressed is no trick at all. Maybe there's a cold shower. At any rate cold water is used on the face to give freshness to the skin and eyes. Make-up is applied with discretion. Saturday afternoon is set aside for the shampoo, wave set and manicure. Easy as pie, all of it. The schedule imparts self-respect, gives satisfaction.

Need Salads In Winter

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Salads are needed in the wintertime, perhaps more so than at any other season. And as our markets offer all the makings the year 'round, don't skimp on salads if you would be healthy. And, in addition to the pungent scallion and the ruddy radish, winter offers healthful citrus fruits. With the addition of nutmeats and dried fruits, one can concoct the most wonderful salads. And as for dressings, their name is legion!

Grapefruit salad cocktail looks as handsome as it is nutritious and tasty. Cut large, firm grapefruit in halves and remove the core. With sharp knife loosen each segment from mebrane; cut small bias slits or gashes at regular intervals in grapefruit skin around rim of the fruit, cutting through heel but not membrane. Insert small green leaves in each slit. Put sliced, stuffed olives in center. Over each grapefruit half trickle a teaspoon of salad oil, a dash of salt and a few drops of worchestershire.

Stuffed Date Salad.

Stuffed date salad calls for one package pasteurized dates, one-half package cream cheese, lettuce, one-half cup peanut butter, one-quarter cup cream and French or mayonnaise dressing. Rub cream cheese and peanut butter, separately, to a paste with cream. Stuff half the dates with each mixture. Arrange cheese and peanut stuffed dates alternately in a circle on lettuce. Serve with dressing. It makes six servings.

Cranberry mold requires one pound cranberries, one cup water, teaspoon phosphate baking powder, one cup chopped celery, one and one-half cups sugar, two tablespoons plain gelatin, two tablespoons cold water, one cup chopped nutmeats, one cup chopped apples and one teaspoon lemon juice. Soak gelatine in two tablespoons cold water. Cook cranberries in water until tender; add baking powder and sugar and cook until sugar is dissolved. While still hot stir in gelatin mixture. Cool and add nutmeats, celery and apple mixed with lemon juice. Chill until firm.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

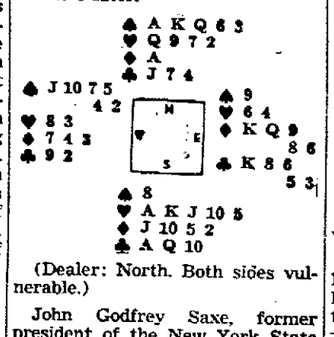
"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSING THE USUAL

MANY PLAYERS USE artificial conventions to locate aces and kings for slam purposes. With the overwhelming majority, the early bidding is on a more or less natural basis, the artificial convention coming into use late on a hand and setting the suit-top situation after everything else is decided. The latest version of the Vanderbilt system, however, reverses that. It locates the top cards first and then settles other matters later.



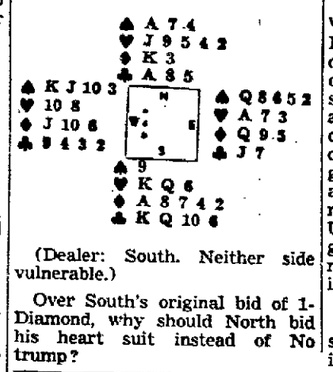
(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

John Godfrey Saxe, former president of the New York State Bar association, has just written a brief pamphlet for his friends on the latest "Vanderbilt Club" system evolved by Walter Beinecke, Harold C. Richard, John H. Johnson and himself at the Manhattan club which won the 1938 championship of New York's Inter-Club League.

Mr. Richard followed it on the North cards of this deal, bidding 1-Club. This as employed by them, shows a good hand containing at least three "top tricks," consisting of either three aces or an ace-king and an ace. A negative response of 1-Diamond would deny two top tricks. One of hearts or spades, or two of clubs or diamonds would show the A-K of the suit named. A response of 1-No trump would show two aces. So that was what Mr. Beinecke bid in response to the 1-Club.

With both partners knowing the side held all aces, Mr. Richards now showed his real suit at 2-Spades, Mr. Beinecke his at 3-Hearts, Mr. Richard his splendid fit with 5-Hearts. Mr. Beinecke, in order to encourage a lead to his clubs, made a psychic call at this stage of 6-Diamonds, then Mr. Richards 6-Hearts and Mr. Beinecke 7-Hearts. T. Suffern Tailer, the "Tommy" of golf fame, was not fooled by the psychic, but led a trump. This necessitated Mr. Beinecke trying the club finesse later, but it worked and the contract was made.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Over South's original bid of 1-Diamond, why should North bid his heart suit instead of No trump?

Rice, that grand extender of left-over foods, is used for a splendid luncheon or supper dish. It requires three cups cooked rice, teaspoon salt, three tablespoons grated cheese or chopped celery, two cups chicken or turkey gravy, or stock, and one cup giblets, minced. Reheat the rice in the gravy for about 10 minutes. Add salt and mix in the minced giblets. Turn into a hot serving dish, and sprinkle with finely-grated cheese or finely-chopped celery. It makes six servings.

Chicken salad loaf is a swell way of utilizing left-over chicken. It requires one cup boiled rice, one-third cup mayonnaise, one cup diced cooked chicken, two tablespoons chopped nut meats, salt and pepper to taste and one small can of asparagus tips. Mix thoroughly the rice, chicken, asparagus and mayonnaise. Add nuts and seasoning. Pack firmly in mold and chill for three hours. Unmold, garnish with salad greens and serve in slices with mayonnaise. It makes six servings for luncheon.

¾ cup milk

Combine Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. (So easy with smooth, creamy Spry.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition.

Add baking powder to flour and sift 3 times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Pour batter into two 8-inch layer pans greased with Spry. Bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Spread Toasted Walnut Filling between layers and Sea Foam Frosting on top and sides of cake.

TOASTED WALNUT FILLING

½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon water
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
¾ cup walnuts, chopped and toasted

Combine brown sugar, salt, butter and water in top of double boiler and heat until sugar is dissolved. Pour over egg yolk, return to double boiler and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool. Add walnuts. Spread between layers.

SEA FOAM FROSTING

1 egg white, unbeaten
¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
3 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon light corn sirup
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg white, brown sugar, water and corn sirup in top of double boiler and mix thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly with rotary egg beater until mixture holds up in peaks (about 7 minutes). Remove from fire, add vanilla and beat until cool and thick enough to spread.

"SPRY'S marvelously creamy, mixes like magic!" say cooking experts for 281 home-making schools. Spry isn't one of those shortenings that must be kept in the refrigerator and get so stiff and hard to cream. Spry stays creamy and fresh on the kitchen shelf, ready for instant mixing.

"Why, cake-making is almost child's play now!" you'll say. And won't you be proud of your light, delicate Spry cakes—your tender, flaky pastry and crispy fried foods, so digestible fried the Spry way that a child can eat them. Change to Spry.
